Dear Sisters and Friends,
 Reflecting on the past several months, there is no denying that we have not experienced such a period in our lifetimes. We've had to constantly adjust our everyday practices to safely and effectively continue our lives and work. The necessity for these decisions has come upon us suddenly and has drastically reordered our lives.

As Delta Gammas, we make promises of friendship, loyalty, truth and honor – and these promises endure, despite setbacks. As the Delta Gamma Foundation, we will face the challenges before us and take deliberate steps to advance our mission, while keeping those promises we hold so dear.

In the 2020-2021 Annual Impact Report, you'll experience, in action, the many ways the Delta Gamma Foundation is committed to fulfilling our promises as we redefine the path for those who come next.

The needs of those we serve, and therefore our work, continues to evolve. As a result we must adopt a growth mindset, be prepared to innovate and rise to the challenge before us. Benjamin Franklin is quoted as saying, "When you're finished changing, you're finished." Well, we are definitely not finished. In fact, in many ways, we're just getting started!

We're proud to share how your support enhances the experiences of individual members, the ways in which you provide opportunities for training and programming and of course, how Service for Sight allows us to collectively advocate for those who are living with blindness or vision loss.

But make no mistake, we are only scratching the surface. The need is great and your gifts to the Foundation are more important than ever. The truth is, the Delta Gamma Foundation exists for, and solely because of, YOU.

Thank you, from the bottom of our hearts, for lifting us up through the challenges of the past year and empowering us to become poised for even greater things to come.

Redefining the path for our sisters

Remy Shannon, Delta Eta-Cal. State, Sacramento, Sisters Helping Sisters: Need-Based Scholarship Recipient

but Delta Gamma has been my solace in all of it.

I applied for the Sisters Helping Sisters: Need-Based Scholarship because I have an Autonomic Nervous System Disorder and I have struggled with working during the pandemic. The stress of finances in my first year of college really affected my mental health. As soon as I heard our Advisory Team Chairman mention the scholarships available to members through Delta Gamma, I applied.

I am so thankful for this scholarship and the Foundation for encouraging and supporting women.

I am majoring in Communication Sciences and Disorders, and I plan on becoming an Audiologist. This fall, I will be applying to grad schools for my Doctorate of Audiology. Outside of Delta Gamma, I am also involved in various clubs and organizations such as The National Student Speech-Language-Hearing Association, the Student Academy of Audiology, and R.A.I.N.B.O.W. which targets diversity and inclusion in the field of Communication Sciences and Disorders.

This scholarship will be extremely impactful to my academic success. Without this scholarship, I would have been extremely stressed and in a tough spot financially. However, now I will be able to focus on my studies and my future success, stress-free. I am overjoyed to be selected as a recipient of a Sisters Helping Sisters: Need-Based Scholarship! Thank you!

When I transferred to Sacramento State, it was at the height of the pandemic. I had never envisioned coming to college in a fully online environment. I didn't know anybody, and I didn't feel involved outside of my major. From day one, Delta Gamma stood out to me. When I met the sisters of Delta Gamma, they spoke to me about philanthropy and shared ideals. I immediately knew this would be my sorority ... and sure enough, I was "invited home." It has been difficult to navigate a virtual college experience,

Donor support to the Foundation in 2020-21 has made this impact possible.

The Schmoker Family: Bill, Lisa, Kim, Kit and Dick

Redefining the path for Training and Programming

The Stuart Collegiate Development Consultant was established by Helen Catherine (H.K.) Davis Stuart, Kappa-Nebraska, in 1995. H.K.'s family has now endowed this program with a transformational gift to the Foundation to ensure that H.K.'s vision of the power of education lives on.

There is often a love of Delta Gamma that spreads beyond individual members onto their families. Never has that statement been truer than when applied to the Richard and Catherine (Kit) Stuart Schmoker, Kappa-Nebraska, family and their quest to honor their mother and grandmother, Helen Catherine (H.K.) Davis Stuart, Kappa-Nebraska.

H.K.'s incredible leadership and generous gifts impacted many areas of Delta Gamma, including the Collegiate Development Consultants (CDCs). CDCs are recent Delta Gamma graduates who are empowered to affect change on campuses and in collegiate chapters across North America.

So impressed with the quality and character of the CDCs, H.K. and her husband Jim established the Stuart Consultant as a way to recognize the CDC with the highest interview score.

The Delta Gamma Foundation is thrilled to announce that the Stuart Consultant is now a permanently endowed position made possible through a transformational $1 million gift in H.K.'s memory. This fund has been established because of the visionary support of H.K.'s daughter Kit, her husband Dick, and their children; Lisa Schmoker Hesdorffer, William Charles Schmoker, and Catherine (Kim) Schmoker Hunnewell, Alpha Upsilon-Southern Methodist and current Delta Gamma Foundation Trustee.

The Schmoker family says: "We chose to make this gift because we realize how valuable the CDC program is to Delta Gamma, and how important it was to our mother and grandmother. Our family has long held education as a strong ideal, knowing the impact it can make on an individual and the community at large. As we reflect on what the CDCs have already accomplished, we also look ahead and want to be sure that Delta Gamma will continue to have an enriching and vital CDC program for our collegiate chapters forever."

The Schmoker family has always understood the power of a giving heart and have positively influenced countless sisters throughout their philanthropic and leadership journeys. We thank the Schmoker family for this historic gift which will not only pay tribute to H.K.'s legacy, but will also ensure CDCs can continue to provide professional support that maintains a high-quality collegiate experience and strengthens our sisterhood.

Redefining the path for the arts

Clovernook Center for the Blind and Visually Impaired has been advocating for people living with blindness or vision loss for over a century. By creating rich experiences, Clovernook aims to empower people to be self-sufficient and live fully in their communities.

Most recently, thanks in part to a Service for Sight grant from the Delta Gamma Foundation, Clovernook has been able to respond to a real and overdue need to improve accessibility in art museums and other cultural institutions nationwide. More and more organizations are aware that creating inclusive experiences needs to be a core component of their space designs, programming and exhibits, and yet little support, both in terms of expertise and funding, exist. Clovernook's Arts and Accessibility Initiative aims to bridge the gap between patron needs and organizational knowledge by assisting institutions as they create spaces and programming that are enriching experiences for all people.

The Arts and Accessibility Initiative grew out of a collaborative project between the Massillon Museum, near Cleveland, OH, and Clovernook. The Museum was embarking on a new and unique exhibit that would make the visual arts accessible to all patrons, including those in the blind and visually impaired community. Blind Spot: A Matter of Perception featured ten abstract paintings from the Museum's collection. In order to ensure that those living with blindness or vision loss could experience the artwork with other senses, two co-curators who have been blind since birth worked with Museum staff to create audio representations of each work, alongside large-font typewritten and braille labels. A tactile model artist cast aluminum-panel representations of each piece of art, where the raised areas of the plane mimic the contours and depictions in the painting.

In addition to providing an opportunity to experience visual arts with other senses, Clovernook and the Museum wanted to consider the whole exhibit experience and how people who are blind would navigate the space. A tactile exhibit map, raised floor guides to assist people who use white canes and floor mats in front of each artwork allowed people to easily locate each work and the accompanying touch-screen iPads with headphones to hear the sonic representations.

Clovernook staff have long been experts in producing tactile graphics for education, but moving this knowledge into the arts required new creativity and innovation of end-user feedback. As a beta-test of sorts, Clovernook staff created an interactive and accessible exhibit in their headquarters from their own collection, including paintings by a sister of Clovernook's founders, Effie Trader. Staff and volunteers who are blind created ceramic panels representing the art with audio descriptions available through headphones and iPads. Other Clovernook staff were then invited to visit the mini-exhibit, and adjustments were made based on their ease of use and satisfaction.

After the space was refined, floor guides were installed and the tactile exhibit map was completed, Clovernook staff took what they had learned and applied it to the Massillon project.

The Museum addressed the need for more accessibility head-on, but there are thousands of cultural institutions in the U.S. that are not as inclusive. Traditional museums and cultural institutions don't always have the technological resources and know-how to provide high quality accessibility. Clovernook has expanded their initiative and shifted focus to supporting organizations by training staff and curators on the issues around accessibility, sharing best-practices for welcoming patrons who are blind or visually impaired, providing tactile and braille design and printing services, integrating feedback from lived experiences and reinforcing the need for end-user testing as part of any accessibility initiative. By centralizing these efforts, and because of the generous support of organizations like the Delta Gamma Foundation, Clovernook is now able to offer multiple organizations their expertise through in-person consultation and on-demand resources, meaning even more patrons can fully experience the arts.

Cincinnati Museum Center guest reads braille to learn about the artifact being displayed. Above the description, a tactile map of the exhibit is provided so that the guest may easily find the next display.

About Clovernook Center for the Blind and Visually Impaired:

Founded by sisters Florence and Georgia Trader in 1903 as a home, school, and handiwork enterprise for women who were blind or visually impaired, Clovernook was the nation's first braille printing house run entirely by women who were blind. Now the largest braille printing house in the world, Clovernook's programming serves thousands of adults and children each year so that they can live full, engaged and independent lives.

Clovernook continues to fulfill its founders' vision by employing staff who are blind or visually impaired in all areas of their enterprise.

“It’s important for people to see accessibility as a normal part of what is offered in cultural institutions. The inclusive elements of the exhibit will impact everyone who visits the space. Whether one is blind or visually impaired or not, all visitors will recognize that this is an inclusive place that everyone can visit and be enriched.”

- Brian Anderson, Arts and Accessibility Coordinator
