Program Overview

As stated in Article II of the Fraternity Constitution: The objects of this Fraternity shall be to foster high ideals of friendship among women, to promote their educational and cultural interests, to create in them a true sense of social responsibility, and to develop in them the finest qualities of character.

Chapters will complete four programs over the academic year, one program tied to each value in Article II:

- Friendship
- Educational & Cultural Interests
- Social Responsibility
- Character

Most programs will be completed in small groups of 10-15. Programs marked with an * are completed with the entire chapter.

Scheduling Strategies

Schedule 45 minutes for each program. When scheduling:

- Schedule in place of chapter meeting; do not schedule the programs in addition to chapter meeting.
- Do not schedule when chapter votes are needed.
- Hand out chapter announcements, send via email or project them prior to the program.
- Ensure the focus of the meeting is the program, not chapter business or announcements.
- If you must do chapter business at a DG Dialogues meeting, conduct the DG Dialogues program first and then conclude the meeting with chapter business.

Small Group

In order to allow for more intimate conversations and dialogue, the four educational programs will be completed in small groups of 10-15.

Small groups should be made-up of a cross section of individuals in the chapter. Small groups should represent:

- Member classes
- Member interests

Consider using an online random list generator to create diverse small groups. The vp: member education, in conjunction with CMT, is responsible for placing members in small groups.

Add new members to existing groups prior to the first program.

Chapters may choose to keep the make-up of the small groups the same throughout the entire academic year or they may choose to change the make-up of the small groups for each DG Dialogue. The benefits of keeping the small groups the same throughout the year are as follows:

- Develop deeper relationships with group members
- Establish trust amongst group members
- · Less work for vp: member education

The advantages of changing the make-up of the small groups for each program are as follows:

- Develop more relationships with chapter members
- Hear more perspectives

The same small group facilitators should be used throughout the entire academic year.

Small Group Facilitators

The key to these programs being successful is the facilitation of the small group. Each small group will be led by one facilitator. The vp: member education, in conjunction with the member education adviser and CMT, selects small group facilitators. Take care in selecting small group facilitators. Consider members who ...

- will prepare prior to the program
- are education majors or peer facilitators
- can listen and encourage conversation
- are trusted and well-respected
- will attend the anchored small group training

Small group facilitators are NOT presenters, but rather conversation starters and guiders. Small group facilitators don't need to be chapter officers. The same small group facilitators should be used for the entire academic year.

Small group facilitators must attend a small group facilitator training. If a facilitator is unable to attend, a make-up training must be conducted.

Curriculum Key

To better understand how to read the curriculum, take note of the following notations:

X/XX	Denotes the time. The first X is the number of minutes this section takes. The second set of numbers is at the conclusion of this section, how many minutes you are into the session.
WS	Indicates worksheet/handout needed.
Italics	Marks curriculum you should tell/ask the participants.
Plain text	Indicates instructions for you as the facilitator.

Instructions:

5/5	Facilitation Introduction
	Thank the facilitators for agreeing to serve the chapter in this important role.
	Ask the following questions:
	Think about a time that you attended a lecture/discussion/speaker and really enjoyed it. What made it enjoyable? [Potential answers: content is interesting/exciting, speaker is engaging, emphatic, enthusiastic, knowledgeable]
	Now the opposite - what potentially makes those things unbearable? [Potential answers: content is boring, reading directly from slides manatana distracted] directly from slides, monotone, distracted] Share the following sentiment: We have the opportunity to create an impactful and meaningful experience for our Delta Gamma sisters. This group has been given this role because we are capable of making these important programs engaging and meaningful.
	So much of this hinges upon our ability to facilitate and to communicate the importance and meaning of the topics. So, today we are going to review some tips and tricks for effective facilitation of Delta Gamma programs.

20/25	Facilitation Video
Video	Play the Facilitation Tips video.
	Ask the following questions:
	What stood out to you most in this video?
	What did the facilitator do well?
	What did you notice about the small group members?
	 Which of these tips resonated most with you?
	Which tip do you feel is the toughest? Why is it important?
	Which tip comes the easiest to you?
WS	Distribute the Facilitation Tips handout. Give facilitators a few minutes to review.
	Provide the following instructions:
	 Place a star by the tip you believe is most impactful.
	Place a checkmark by the tip you do well.
	Circle the tip you need to focus on.
	At the bottom, list a facilitation tip that needs added to the list.
	Ask facilitators to get into pairs to review their responses.
20/45	Chapter Specific

	Allow time for questions and conclude by thanking small group facilitators for taking on this important role.

Facilitation Tips

Facilitation is the key exercise in helping our members learn and process the curriculum presented during DG Dialogues. Facilitation can be tricky and requires preparation, awareness and flexibility.

Facilitation Skills

A successful, engaged facilitator does the following:

- Watches the time The sessions are carefully crafted and timed. It is important you follow the time notations given to ensure you finish the curriculum and give each part of the curriculum its full time allotment.
- Manages small group members Facilitators must be cognizant of the chatty and quiet small group members and promote appropriate levels of engagement to ensure the small group experience is valuable for all participants.
- Asks lots of questions Facilitation is like peeling an onion ... you keep asking questions to expose the various layers and perspectives.
- Listens 90%; Talk 10% Facilitators assist the group in hearing themselves think. Individuals do not like being told what to think. Rather, assist your members in reaching their own conclusions by listening to them and asking related questions.
- Uses facilitative language Statements such as "I sense," "I heard you say,"
 "To clarify, you said earlier" enables the speaker to better hear what they said and allows you the opportunity to ensure you and others understood their comments.
- Encourage conflicting opinions to emerge Group consensus or groupthink will not permit the group to hear all perspectives. The group will miss some important and interesting points. If differing opinions emerge, encourage the group to consider all opinions. If groupthink emerges, ask questions such as "What do others think?" "Do others have a different opinion?" etc.
- Embraces silence If the group is quiet after asking a question, let the silence remain as the members are pondering a response.
- Ensures a safe space Maintaining an atmosphere of confidentiality is paramount to a successful discussion. Remind participants to not share this conversation with others.

- Is an active learner The programs are not only a learning opportunity for your small group members but are a learning opportunity for the facilitators. Facilitators should reflect on the processing questions presented and complete the worksheets. Do not use your phone while your group members are completing an individual activity.
- Models appropriate behavior Arrive early to meetings, avoid using your cell phone or other electronic devices, and remain engaged throughout the entire program. This also means generating interest prior to the program and avoiding negative comments prior lessening enthusiasm.

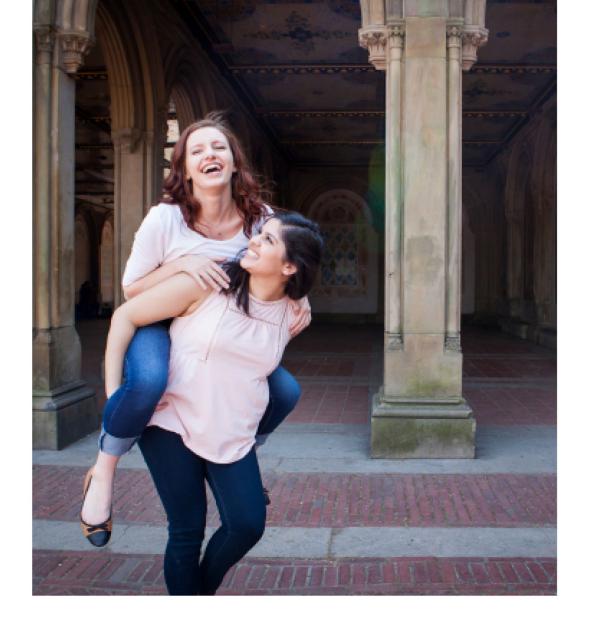

Facilitation Strategies to Engage Participants (if needed)

- Individual Reflection Some members may need time to think through their thoughts before sharing with the larger group. Providing time for members to jot down thoughts or reactions to questions you present before discussing as a large group may encourage more participation.
- Turn and Buzz Present a question to the large group. Then ask members to turn to a partner to discuss the question. After the members have chatted for several minutes, ask several pairs to share their responses with the larger group. This strategy is most helpful when individuals are not comfortable speaking in front of a large group.
- Ball Toss In order to encourage participation, present a question, provide a few moments for the participants to generate a response, and then toss the ball to one member to answer. You can either ask that person to throw the ball to another person or you can toss the ball to someone.

Curriculum Key

To better understand the curriculum, take note of the following notations:

X/XX	Denotes the time. The first X is the number of minutes this section takes. The second set of numbers is at the conclusion of this section, how many minutes you are into the session.

PROGRAM GUIDE

FRIENDSHIP PROGRAMS

Select one of the following for your friendship program:

- Behind Happy Faces: Talk to a Sister
- The Oath and Me
- The Importance of Empathy
- My Story
- Fireside
- Chapter Developed Program
- Campus Program

Behind Happy Faces: Talk to a Sister

The Behind Happy Faces program was developed by Ross Szabo, author and the CEO of Human Power Project, a company that designs mental health curriculum and author of Behind Happy Faces. Szabo designed two programs for Delta Gamma. The second program is a Character Program.

The learning objectives of Talk to a Sister are as follows:

- Demonstrate what actions are helpful to approach a friend, family member or partner, who needs help.
- Determine the differences between what a friend can do and what can only be done by a mental health professional.
- Identify warning signs of someone who may be experiencing a severe mental health breakdown.
- Determine the differences between what a friend can do and what can only be done by a mental health professional.

To access this program, click here.

Before you facilitate the program, please send the following to the chapter: On [insert date] at [insert time], the chapter will be participating in the DG Dialogue [insert name of Behind Happy Faces program]. The content and discussion in this training will necessarily engage with topics of mental health. It may be both emotionally and intellectually challenging to engage with. We believe this is an incredibly relevant and important conversation for collegians to have and will work to create a space where we can all engage bravely, empathetically and thoughtfully with this difficult content.

This program is funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation.

The Oath and Me

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to recite the Oath of Friendship
- Participants will describe ways their chapter is inconsistent with the Oath of Friendship
- Participants will make promises to themselves about steps they will take to live closer to the Oath.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- 3 sheets of Flip Chart paper for each group with one of the following questions written on each one:
 - 1 Flip Chart has the question "How does our chapter uphold the Oath?"
 - 1 Flip Chart has the question "When does our chapter not uphold the Oath?"
 - o 1 Flip Chart has the question "How could we shift to live more by the Oath?"
- Marker for each participant or 3 post-it notes for each participant
- Oath and Me worksheet for each participant
- Pen for each participant
- Small cardstock cut into wallet size cards-should be the size or slightly smaller than a credit card
- Initiation Ceremony

Before the Program You Need to:

- Prep the cardstock
- Prepare the Flip Chart paper
- Review Third Degree of the Initiation Ceremony and be familiar with the meanings of the badge, particularly the cross-bar

Important Facilitator Note:

Since the program reviews the meanings revealed during Initiation, it should only be conducted when all members are initiated.

Instruc	ctions:
5/5	We spend a significant amount of time talking about our mottos and our values during our meetings and recruitment, but do we think about how we demonstrate it to each other and the world? While the Oath of Friendship is not a public statement it is the thing that unites all Delta Gammas. We are responsible for upholding and living by the Oath of Friendship.
	Have the group form the friendship circle. We recite this during formal chapter meetings to remind us of our Initiation and our Oath to one another. We recite it, but we don't often create the time and space to discuss what it means in our day-to-day lives or our chapter culture. Today we will have the opportunity to do just that.
	The reason we form the circle and the way we cross our arms resembles the cable on our anchor badge. Recite the Oath of Friendship.
10/15	Distribute the Oath and Me worksheet and have each member fill out the worksheet silently and alone.
	After 5 minutes have them turn to a partner to share their responses to the questions.
5/20	 Put 3 pages of Flip Chart paper around the room. 1 Flip Chart has the question "How does our chapter uphold the Oath?" 1 Flip Chart has the question "When does our chapter not uphold the Oath" 1 Flip Chart has the question "How could we shift to live more by the Oath"
	Each person will have a marker and a chance to write their responses on the Flip Chart papers. If easier, participants can write their responses to each question on a post-it note and then put the post-it note on the appropriate Flip Chart paper.
10/30	 Ask the following questions: What surprised you about this activity? Which question was the easiest to answer? What stood out to you from the list of examples about how our chapter upholds the Oath of Friendship? What frustrates you about the examples of how our chapter does not uphold the Oath of Friendship?

• What gets in our way of living the Oath of Friendship?

The Oath is the backbone of our sisterhood. It is the promise we made to each other and ourselves. Of course, we sometimes will slip up but that is why we made the Oath to hold each other up and hold one another accountable to the Oath. Our Founders knew it was going to be difficult, so they created some inspiration. The meanings associated with our badge provide us with this inspiration.

Ask the following questions: What does our badge mean? What meanings are associated with each facet of the badge?

Share the meanings of the badge if the participants are not able to do so.

Ask each person to write on their card stock what she has the courage and strength to do. These statements should correlate to the discussion around what ways our chapter does not uphold the Oath of Friendship and the personal steps that member will take to confront those actions.

Have each person share their courage statement.

Please place your card in your book bag, your planner, in your room, or in your wallet. Place it somewhere you will see often to remind you of the promise you made. The card should serve as a reminder of the promises you made today to live by the Oath.

End with the Oath of Friendship.

Oath and Me Worksheet

- 1. What is sacred to you (e.g., family, friends, shelter, food access, etc.)
- 2. What does a promise mean to you?
- 3. How do you demonstrate friendship in your daily life?
- 4. How do you show sympathy in your life?
- 5. How well do your chapter members show assistance and support?
- 6. What does it mean to be someone's champion?
- 7. How do you demonstrate the Oath of Friendship?
- 8. What does it look like when your chapter demonstrates the Oath?
- 9. When does your chapter not uphold the Oath?
- 10. How do you think we could shift to live more by the Oath?

The Importance of Empathy

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will understand the difference between empathy and sympathy.
- Participants will develop an understanding of the importance of empathy to the Delta Gamma experience.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- Empathy vs. Sympathy video https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1Evwgu369Jw
- Flip Chart paper
- Markers
- Projector or computer to play video
- Internet Connection

Before the Program You Need to:

- Decide if you will be watching the video together as a whole chapter and then breaking into small groups or if you will be watching the video on laptops in small groups.
- Prepare four flipcharts that look like the following:

Perspective Taking		Staying out o	f Judgement
Looks like	Sounds like	Looks like	Sounds like
Feels like	Barriers	Feels like	Barriers

Recognizing Emotions in Others		Communicate the Emotion Noticed
Looks like	Sounds like	Looks like	Sounds like

Instructions:

2/2	Introduction
17/15	Begin the session by welcoming the chapter and thanking them for coming. Mention that today's DG Dialogue program is about empathy and the importance of that skill to the Delta Gamma experience. The following video will be watched as a large group and then the small group leaders will facilitate follow-up questions and the remainder of the activity.
13/15	Empathy Versus Sympathy
Video	Play Empathy versus Sympathy video - https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1Evwgu369Jw
Fac Note	Watch the video together and then break into small groups or play video in small groups on a laptop.
	 Ask the following questions: What did you think of the video? What resonated with you the most? What do you think is the difference between empathy and sympathy? Which do we practice most often? Which is harder? What is your biggest takeaway from the video? How do you think we learn these skills?
Fac Note	Make the following point if not shared by the participants: Empathy is an important way that we care for each other. By being empathetic, rather than sympathetic, we are concretely able to show that we care about a person's experience, stories and feelings, even if they are unrelated to us.
15/30	Elements of Empathy
Fac Note	Lead the group through examining the four (4) elements of empathy used in the video. For each, you will discuss what that element looks like, what it feels like and what it sounds like. Record the group's answers on the flipchart paper prepared prior to the workshop.
	In the video, Brené Brown uses the following four elements to describe empathy. Let's talk about each one to fully examine how we can be more empathetic.
	1. Perspective TakingWhat does it look like to take the perspective of someone else?

- What does it sound like to take the perspective of someone else?
- What does it feel like to take the perspective of someone else?
 - What are barriers to doing this?
 - 2. Staying out of judgement
 - What does it look like to stay out of judgement?
 - What does it sound like to stay out of judgement?
 - What does it feel like to stay out of judgement?
 - What are barriers to doing this?
 - 3. Recognizing Emotion in Others
 - What does it look like to recognize emotion in others?
 - What does it sound like to recognize emotion in others?
 - What does it feel like to recognize emotion in others?
 - What are barriers to doing this?
 - 4. Communicate the Emotion Noticed
 - What does it look like to communicate emotion?
 - What does it sound like to communicate emotion?
 - What does it feel like to communicate emotion?
 - What are barriers to doing this?

Ask the following questions:

- What can we take away about empathy from examining it in this way?
- Why is this important?
- Which of these seems to be hardest for the people around us?
- In what ways can we commit to caring for each other better through empathy?

15/45 | Empathy in Delta Gamma

Split the group into pairs. If there is an odd number, create a triad. Each member will have 60 seconds to brainstorm out loud their own answer to this question - Why is empathy an important part of your Delta Gamma experience?

Explain that the listening member should do just that - listen. Remembering the elements of empathy, this is an opportunity to listen to the perspective of each member.

Ask the following concluding questions:

- What was it like to listen without responding?
- Did you notice elements of our previous activity (perspective, recognizing emotions, etc.)?

 What is one thing we might do better or more fully to be more empathetic chapter sisters?

Thank the small group members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

My Story

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to identify significant life events that impacted the person they have become.
- Participants will be able to hear stories that will impact their ability to develop meaningful relationships with one another.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- Colored pencils, markers or crayons
- Blank paper (one per participant)

Before the Program You Need to:

• Create your own timeline to use as an example. Be courageous and vulnerable when developing your timeline.

Instructions:

15/15	Developing Your Timeline
	Introduce the My Story activity with the following statement: You are your story. It contains plots, characters and themes. This exercise is an opportunity for you to become more conscious of your story and create a map of personal changes and transitions that you have experienced so far.
WS	Utilize blank paper and colored pencils, markers or crayons to draw a timeline (or continuum) that reflects the story of your life. In thinking about your past, please think about major moments that have shaped who you are today. Also think about times that went well and you reached a "peak" or times when things did not go well and you hit a "valley."
Fac Note	Be as creative as you want in your timeline. It can be a historical timeline, an actual map, or a set of drawings that represent your major life moments.

Consider sharing your timeline as an example and to model vulnerability and courage. 25/40 Sharing Your Story Remind participants of the Oath of Secrecy we each took during both the Pi Alpha ceremony and Initiation. Remind participants that the stories shared should be kept confidential and not discussed with others. Ask participants to be vulnerable as they share their stories and for the others to listen respectfully. Have the group share one or two major life moments that impacted who they are today. Be cognizant of the time to ensure each person has time to share. 5/45 Processing Ask a couple of the following questions after everyone has shown their timelines based on time allotted. • What surprised you the most about your timeline or the mapping process? • What did you learn about other group members? • What similarities did you see among the group? • How do you think the challenges you have experience thus far will differ from challenges you will experience in the future? Thank each person for finding the courage to be vulnerable and authentic. Remind participants to keep each person's timeline map confidential.

Fireside

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to reflect on their Delta Gamma experience.
- Participants will be able to hear stories that will impact their ability to develop meaningful relationships with one another.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

• Hannah doll, cream rose, anchor badge, battery-operated candle or other significant item

Before the Program You Need to:

• Select the prompt.

Instructions:

40/40	Fireside
	Offer the following instructions: Today, we are going to participation in a fireside. A fireside is an informal ritual allowing each member and new member an opportunity to reflect on her Delta Gammo experiences in a positive and meaningful manner. It is not a time for negative feelings or venting about someone or a particular event/happening. Rather, it is an opportunity for us to reflect on positive aspects of our members.
	Explain that each person will have an opportunity to respond to the prompt selected. When it is their turn to speak, they will hold the significant item selected such as a Hannah Doll, cream rose, anchor badge, battery-operated candle or other significant item.
	 Select from one of the following prompts: Why are you glad to be a Delta Gamma? Why did you join Delta Gamma? Describe one positive thing Delta Gamma has given to you. How has Delta Gamma provided you high ideals of friendship? How has Delta Gamma challenged you to be the best version of yourself? How has Delta Gamma challenged you to be "Do Good?" How has Delta Gamma been your champion? Remind participants of the Oath of Secrecy taken during the Pi Alpha ceremony and Initiation and that the stories shared should remain with only the small group. Small group facilitator may consider going first in order to set the tone and model the appropriate length. 5/45 Conclusion Thank participants for their vulnerability and authenticity. Conclude by reciting the Oath of Friendship. Ask new members to step out of the room if present for the Oath of Friendship.

Chapter-Developed Program

Chapters may select to develop their own program for any of the four values. In order to conduct a chapter-developed program, utilize the following template and submit it 6 weeks prior to the scheduled program to your RCS/CAC/NCC and to the assistant executive director & director of education & development (DGDialogues@deltagamma.org) for approval.

Topic Focus:

Describe need for this program:

Learning Objectives: [Complete the following prompt ... As a result of this program, participants will be able to...]

Time Allotted:

Materials Required:

Facilitator Instructions: [Give detailed instructions to the small group facilitators on how to facilitate the program. Utilize the other programs in this guide for guidance on how to write the instructions.]

Campus Program

Learning Objective:

- Participants will be able to discuss the main points presented by campus program.
- Participants will be able to articulate how the main points apply to their individual lives.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

• Facilitation Questions for Small Groups

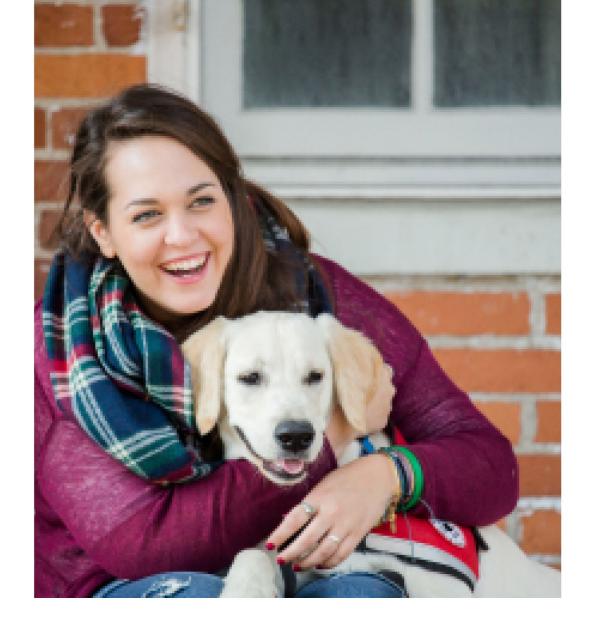

Before the Program You Need to:

- Attend the designated campus program. It is best to plan this facilitated discussion as close to the program as possible.
- Have a copy of the learning outcomes or purpose of the campus program for each small group.
- Make notes during the program of follow up questions that could be asked during small group discussion. A common list of follow up questions should be developed by the vp: member education and shared with each small group to be used during Step 2.

Instructions:

15/15	Key Takeaway
	Ask each small group member to share their key takeaway, or main point, from the event and how they would implement that key point in their life. Example: speaker focuses on hazing – what role do you play in ensuring hazing is not a part of chapter activities. Limit each member to one main point due to time constraints.
15/30	What Role Do You Play
	Pose any specific question the speaker(s) asked you to reflect on during the program or after the program.
	If there were no questions posed, ask the following questions:
	How can you be proactive in addressing this issue?
	What role does your chapter or the fraternity/sorority community play in addressing this issue?

15/45	Step 2 - Connection to Article II
Fac Note	Step 2 may take the full 30 minutes depending on the list of questions generated. If that is the case this step may be eliminated. Ask each small group member to discuss what the speaker's mission was and how it connects to Article II: The objects of this Fraternity shall be to foster high ideals of friendship among women, to promote their educational and cultural interests, to create in them a true sense of social responsibility and to develop in them the best qualities of character. Thank the small group members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

DG DIALOGUES
PROGRAM GUIDE

SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY PROGRAMS

Select one of the following for your social responsibility program:

- Alcohol Skills Training Program (ASTP)*
- Safe Medication Practices for Life Prescription Opioids
- Safe Medication Practices for Life Prescription Stimulants
- Supporting Survivors of Sexual Assault
- Mock Trial*
- Letting Go of "You Do You"
- Exploring Sex, Gender and Sexual Identity
- Chapter Developed Program

Alcohol Skills Training Program (ASTP)*

Program Description:

Alcohol Skills Training Program (ASTP) is unlike most alcohol programs because it acknowledges that college students drink. Rather than trying to impose abstinence on college students, it recognizes that any steps toward risk reduction are steps in the right direction.

ASTP is designed to provide those who drink alcohol and those who do not drink alcohol with information regarding alcohol use and its associated negative consequences. It provides individuals with the skills needed to reduce risky use and/or abstain from alcohol use all together. ASTP is not intended to be used to treat those students who meet criteria for alcohol dependence, or who are most at risk for continued alcohol problems associated with chronic heavy alcohol use.

Research has long established that information alone does not necessarily change behavior. The goal of ASTP is to educate students about alcohol-related behaviors, while increasing students' interest in critically examining their drinking patterns and eventually implementing the skills they learn. By doing so, students learn to recognize high-risk situations and to minimize the potential negative consequences through preventative action, reduced consumption or abstinence.

How can my chapter get the program?

In Fall 2015, Delta Gamma set a goal to offer ASTP to all our chapters every three years. Each term, certain chapters will be selected for this program based on a variety of different factors.

When a chapter is selected, the president will receive an email asking her to submit date preferences. Once your date is confirmed via email, you will be responsible for working with your assigned facilitator to select a suitable time for the program. You will need to schedule 2.5 hours to complete ASTP (Example: Saturday 2-4:30 p.m.). Please notify the chapter of the length of the program so they may be prepared. When submitting date preferences, please consult your e-Ops+ calendar as well as your university calendar to ensure that you are not submitting a date that is over a university break or during another significant chapter or campus event.

The year your chapter receives ASTP, it will meet your Social Responsibility program requirement.

Cost of the program:

ASTP is fully funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation, this includes all lodging and travel. If the chapter would like to take the facilitator to lunch/dinner and time permits, they may do so.

Additional Information

Should you have to cancel ASTP at any time, your chapter will be responsible for all expenses incurred up to the date of cancellation. These expenses are in addition to a cancellation fee that is outlined in the Chapter Terms and Conditions document.

Should you have any questions regarding the scheduling and preparation for ASTP please feel free to reach out to astp@deltagamma.org or 614-481-8169. We are so excited to be partnering with your chapter to help us "Do Good" for our communities, campuses and members.

This program is funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation.

13/13	Welcome & Session Introduction
	Welcome everyone and share that you are going to be talking about safe medication practices. Highlight that the materials being used today are from Generation Rx University. They provide messages designed to educate college students toward "safe medication practices for life." Share that today's discussion will focus on an overview of the drug misuse epidemic, prescription opioids, and safe medication practices.
	Distribute the handouts before moving on.

Highlight the following points to introduce the concept of the national drug misuse epidemic (All of the points below are listed on the handout, use it as a guide to your discussion):

- Americans consume more prescription medications than any other developed nation.
- Medications can help us live longer and healthier lives when used as directed by a health professional.
- Any medication can produce adverse health effects, and drug overdose is now the leading cause of accidental death.
- Prescription drug misuse is a national epidemic
 - More than 6 million Americans age 12 and older have used a prescription drug nonmedically (i.e., they've misused the product) in the past month.
 - Prescription drugs are among the most misused substances in the United States, more than all illicit "street" drugs combined except marijuana. (Common street drugs are: cocaine, crack, crystal meth, ecstasy, heroin and LSD).
 - More than 5,500 Americans misuse a prescription medication for the first time every day.
 - Among all age groups, the most commonly misused prescription drugs are opioid pain medications (e.g., Vicodin®, OxyContin®). On college campuses, the misuse of prescription stimulants (e.g., Adderall®, Ritalin®) is also of significant concern.
 - Drug overdose is the leading cause of accidental death in the United States.

Share the following definitions of drug misuse behaviors:

- Taking more of a prescription medication than prescribed.
- Taking a prescription medication for a reason (or in a way) different than that intended by the prescriber.
- Sharing or taking someone else's prescription medication.

Make the following point before moving on: Regardless of intentions, engaging in any of these behaviors is misuse.

Reiterate to the members that because you are talking about prescription drug misuse does not mean most young adults are misusing prescription medication.

Share the statistic below and follow up with the question:

Recent research suggests that on average, only 1 out of 4 young adults (roughly 25 percent) have misused prescription medications in their lifetime—even fewer misuse regularly. (McDaniel A (2015). Center for the Study of Student Life, The Ohio State University)

Fac Note

With this statistic in mind, what do you think college students need to know about prescription drug misuse?

Responses to listen for:

- What drugs are most commonly misused
- It is a very dangerous problem
- Which prescription drugs lead to certain street drugs
- How addiction happens
- How to help someone who has overdosed
- Most college students are not misusing prescription drugs

Ask the following question:

Why do think it is important for college students to know these things about prescription drug misuse?

If not mentioned, share the following points:

- Inform their own prescription drug use
- Know the risk of using prescription drugs
- Know how to help friends/sisters
- Be knowledgeable of the growing national epidemic
- Have a better understanding of how medications can do harm, especially when misused
- College students are susceptible to prescription drug misuse

19/32 Prescription Opioids

Inform the members you are going to talk specifically about prescription opioids before watching a short video that addresses risks inherent to misuse.

Share the different types of opioid drugs:

- Heroin
- Fentanyl
- OxyContin (Oxycodone)
- Vicodin (Hydrocodone)
- Codeine
- Morphine

Video

Play the entire video, The Impact of Misusing Prescription Opioids, https://vimeo.com/208706165

Ask the following question:

What are your reactions to prescription opioids and heroin having similar chemical makeups and that they produce similar effects in the body?

As the discussion begins to dwindle, draw members' attention to the image on the handout about the similarities in chemistry and how the body cannot differentiate between an illicit drug and prescription drug.

Make the following points about individuals transition to heroin after misusing prescription opioids:

- Individuals who misuse and become dependent upon prescription opioids sometimes transition to using heroin to experience the same (or stronger) effect.
- Heroin can be cheaper and easier to obtain in certain areas of the country
- There has been a recent increase in heroin usage, with approximately 75% of users reporting misusing prescription opioids first.
- The body cannot tell the difference from prescription medication or illicit street drug. If the two drugs share similar chemistry, they'll produce similar effects in the body.

Ask the following question:

What are the risks of mixing prescription opioids and alcohol?

Share the following points, if they are not shared by the members:

- All medications have side effects—and mixing alcohol with prescription drugs can sometimes enhance these negative effects.
- Adverse side effects for prescription opioid pain medications include drowsiness, confusion, sedation and slowed breathing. Drinking alcohol at the same time can worsen these potentially harmful effects.
- Many drug overdoses result from mixing prescription opioids with alcohol, prescription sedatives or other drugs which results in dangerously slow breathing and can potentially cause death.

13/45 Safe Medication Practices for Life

Before transitioning to safe medication practices, walk through what to do if they think someone has overdosed. Let members know that the image of the steps can be found on the handout.

WS

If you suspect someone has overdosed on any drug or alcohol, here is how you can act:

- 1. First, call 9-1-1.
- 2. Second, move the individual to the recovery position (place the individual on their left side—with their arms under their head, bending their right leg to prevent them from rolling onto their stomach). This position is designed to prevent suffocation if the individual vomits.
- 3. Third, if available, administer naloxone.
- 4. Lastly, stay with the individual until help arrives.

Naloxone, also known as Narcan®, is a medication called an "opioid antagonist" used to counter the effects of opioid (i.e. morphine or heroin) overdose. Specifically, naloxone is used in opioid overdoses to counteract life-threatening depression of the central nervous system and respiratory system, allowing an overdose victim to breathe normally. Naloxone is a nonscheduled (i.e., non-addictive), prescription medication. Naloxone only works if a person has opioids in their system; the medication has no effect if opioids are absent. The most common form of naloxone is in the form of a spray, that is sprayed up the nose of the person who has overdosed.

The end of the video we watched earlier briefly touched on safe medication practices. What are some things you can do that the video did not mention?

Share the following, if not already mentioned:

- Only use as prescribed (correct dosage and time period)
- Do not share your prescriptions with anyone
- Keep all prescriptions out of reach of children
- Ensure all prescriptions are in safe and locked storage
- Dispose of all prescriptions after need has expired

Thank the members for sharing and thinking about the importance of safe medication practices. Share with them that to get a better understanding of safe medication practices you are going to end with a short video.

Video

Play entire video, Safe Medication Practices for life, https://vimeo.com/208706185

After the video ask the following question:

Did the video highlight anything that did not come up in our discussion?

Ask the following question:

You have been invited to misuse prescription medication or someone is asking for your medication. Would you find it difficult to say no? Why or why not?

Fac Note

Responses to listen for:

- They're my friend, I don't want to make them mad
- I don't want to get in a fight
- I don't want them to think I am a bad friend
- I don't want to deal with the drama
- If I say no, they might think I am lame
- What if it could really help them?
- No, I don't want that on my record
- It's just a pill...

Follow up question:

What strategies could you use to say no?

Share any potential strategies below that have not already been mentioned:

- Talk about how you value their friendship too much to complicate it with prescription drug misuse
 - If they are truly your friend, will saying no make them no longer your friend?
- You don't have to fight, say no and leave it at that
- Encourage them see a doctor about getting a prescription
 - If they think they need to it function, seeing a doctor is a must
- Tell them you don't want to have a drug related offense on your record
 - Prescription drug misuse is a felony offense
- Share your concerns about the risk associated with taking drugs not prescribed to them.
- Leave the situation
 - Suggest an alternative activity to do with the person

Say goodbye and remove yourself from the conversation/room

Make the following points before concluding:

Prescription medications can help us live longer and healthier lives, but any medication has the potential to do harm – especially when misused. We can prevent prescription drug misuse by engaging in safe medication practices for life.

If you know someone who needs help encourage them to reach out to someone for help. There are resources available on campus and in the community. These resources have been compiled in our chapter's campus resource worksheet. You should have received an email from the vp: member education with information on where to find this worksheet.

Inform the members you are going to talk specifically about prescription stimulants before watching a short video. Some examples of prescription stimulants are Ritalin®, Concerta®, Dexedrine® and Adderall®. These drugs increase alertness, energy and attention.

Before playing the video, ask the following question: What are reasons why college students misuse prescription stimulants?

Possible answers include:

- Boost academic performance
- Stay awake longer
- Relax
- Study better/longer

Video

As the discussion ends, inform the members you are going to watch a video about prescription stimulant misuse.

Play the entire video, The Impact of Misusing Prescription Stimulants, https://vimeo.com/213566233

Ask the following question:

How could misusing prescription stimulants impact your future?

If not mentioned by members, share the following points that were referenced in the video:

- Risk for drug dependency/addiction
- Decline in academic performance
- Violating state/federal law, felony conviction
- Violating codes of student conduct
- Loss of friendships

Fac Note

Use the points below to advance the discussion about stimulant use impacting their future:

- Research shows that students who misuse prescription stimulants typically have lower grade-point averages.
- Depending on individual state laws, possession of a controlled substance (e.g., Adderall®, Ritalin®) without a prescription may result in a felony charge?

Ask the following question:

How would a drug-related offense impact your future?

- If we break a law, we also violate most codes of student conduct. In fact, at some universities, misusing prescription stimulants for academic purposes is also considered academic misconduct (some universities consider it cheating).
- In addition to violating codes of student conduct, we also risk losing scholarships and internships, as well as experiencing other legal consequences.

Ask the following question:

What are the risks of mixing prescription stimulants and alcohol?

After soliciting responses from the members, make the following point:

Mixing alcohol with prescription stimulants is a big deal, because it sends the body mixed messages and increases your risk for dangerous levels of intoxication. One tells your body to speed up and the other tells it slow down.

Share the following points to reinforce what is on the handout, if they are not shared by the members:

- Prescription stimulants increase heart rate and initiate the "fight or flight" response.
- Alcohol decreases heart rate and slows messages between the body and brain.
- The body receives both messages simultaneously and can confuse the body and places it at risk for dangers consequences, such as extreme intoxication or irregular heartbeat.

Supporting Survivors of Sexual Assault

Learning Objectives:

- Members will understand the definition of a survivor and secondary survivor of sexual assault.
- Members will be able to identify 1-2 strategies they can use to support survivors.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- Completed Campus Resource Worksheet displayed somewhere all members have access to, or emailed out to every member
- A copy of the Helpful Vocabulary handout for every participant

Before the Program You Need to:

- Ensure the information in the Campus Resource Worksheet is up to date prior to the session.
- Share the following content warning with all members of the chapter no later than one week prior to the discussion: On [insert date] at [insert time], the chapter will be participating in the DG Dialogue Supporting Survivors of Sexual Assault. The content and discussion in this training will necessarily engage with topics related to sexual violence. It may be both emotionally and intellectually challenging to engage with. We believe this is an incredibly relevant and important conversation for collegians to have and will work to create a space where we can all engage bravely, empathetically and thoughtfully with this difficult content.

Instructions:

5/5	Introduction
	Welcome the small group to the session. Share your name and why you chose to lead this DG Dialogue.
	The Supporting Survivors Session is a 45-minute peer facilitated conversation that guides members through the role we can all play in supporting survivors and secondary survivors of sexual violence as it relates to new members, sisters, other students, and the community. Through small group conversation and peer-led activities, participants will learn about the feelings of survivors and secondary survivors and strategies to support them and help create a culture of consent.

All information shared today should be kept confidential. The only exception is if there is genuine fear of self-harm. Supporting each other is an important part of sisterhood and understanding the needs a member may face when they experience sexual assault or relationship violence can help strengthen our sisterhood and our community.

We're going to introduce some ground rules. For this program to be effective, it requires some ground rules so all members can feel heard and supported.

- This is a positive and mindful space.
- We will discuss issues and opportunities, not people.
- Everyone has the chance to participate.
- No one is required to share anything personal.
- Everyone agrees to listen and respond with respect.

If at any point during the session the conversation gets off course, becomes too personal or is uncomfortable, you should take time to remind the group of the ground rules.

Are there any mandatory reporters in the group?

If a mandatory reporter identifies themselves, please ask them to share what they are required to report.

Mandatory reporters are required to report instances of sexual misconduct to the Title IX office or other campus authorities and must disclose their position prior to a person disclosing personal information.

If a group member is uncomfortable being in a group with a mandatory reporter, please relocate either the member or the mandatory reporter to another group.

10/15 | Activity One: Helpful Vocabulary

Distribute the Helpful Vocabulary handout to participants.

Fac Note

Let's start by reviewing some basic definitions before we begin our discussion.

You can either read the following definitions to the group or ask participants to take turns reading each of the definitions aloud. Remind participants that participating in reading the definitions is a choice, and to only participate if they are comfortable.

Consent is intelligent, knowing, voluntary agreement. Simply put, consent is permission. Consent requires mutually understandable words or actions indicating willingness to engage in mutually agreed-upon sexual activity.

Sexual assault can take many different forms, but one thing remains the same: it is never the victim's fault. Sexual assault refers to sexual contact or behavior that occurs without explicit consent of the victim. Some forms of sexual assault include:

- Attempted rape
- Fondling or unwanted sexual touching
- Forcing a victim to perform sexual acts, such as oral sex or penetrating the perpetrator's body
- Penetration of the victim's body, also known as rape

Rape is a form of sexual assault, but not all sexual assault is rape. The term rape is often used as a legal definition to specifically include sexual penetration without consent. For its Uniform Crime Reports, the FBI defines rape as "penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or anus with any body part or object, or oral penetration by a sex organ of another person, without the consent of the victim."

Anyone may be a victim of sexual assault or rape: women, men or children, and regardless of sexual orientation or identity.

A victim of sexual assault is often referred to as a survivor. The term survivor emphasizes the strength and courage needed to survive a traumatic event.

A secondary survivor is someone who is close to the survivor, such as a friend, partner or family member, and may experience some of the same side effects such as personality changes, depression and emotions related to the trauma.

After reading through the definitions, ask participants if they have questions or definitions that they use. Facilitator should consider sharing campus specific definitions as they could vary slightly by state/province/country.

While many of us know someone who has experienced sexual assault or we may have experienced assault personally, it can sometimes feel lonely. If you feel comfortable doing so, please raise your hand if you know someone who has been sexually assaulted.

Thank you for sharing. While these feelings can be lonely, we are not alone. One of the reasons we are talking about supporting survivors today is because it is something that many of us will face in our lives and it is important to create a culture of consent and care for all members.

Activity Two: Understanding the needs of Survivors and Secondary Survivors

For those of you that have been personally impacted by sexual assault, take a moment and think about how you felt when someone shared with you that they were sexually assaulted. Or perhaps how you felt when you shared with someone that you were sexually assaulted.

There is so much vulnerability and power in sharing our stories. It can sometimes be difficult to put what happened into words. It can also be difficult to know what to say or how to respond. Sitting with these feelings can be uncomfortable and really hard. It is important to acknowledge that and the fact that we have the ability to do hard things--even when we are not sure how or where to start.

Would anyone like to share how you felt when you learned someone you care about experienced sexual assault? Remember that all things said in this space should be kept confidential. The only exception is if there is a genuine fear of self-harm. Additionally, if the survivor you are thinking of is present or is known to chapter members or the larger campus community, please do not violate their trust. If you wish to share how something made you feel, please use "I" statements, such as "I wish they knew how loved they are or I want to help them but I am not sure they want me too." Not, "I wish Becca would get counseling."

Leave some space to allow for members to share. You will likely be met with some discomfort, but do not be afraid of silence. Simply sitting in that silence for a bit will encourage members to share. Note that some participants may choose to share their own experience with sexual assault. This is okay. Thank them for sharing and redirect back to the exercises. If appropriate, refer them to some of the resources listed toward the end of this facilitation guide.

Acknowledge and thank those who were comfortable sharing. Some people are not sure what to say or do and that is completely normal. A few things you might consider saying:

- Thank you for trusting me. I am sorry this happened to your friend. I think you and your friend are brave and I believe your friend.
- This was not your friend's fault.
- Please know I am always here if you want to talk.
- If you want resources, I am happy to help you.

Does anyone want to share something you might say or want to hear?

Once participants have shared their thoughts, share the following message:

Survivors and secondary survivors can sometimes take on similar feelings. Examples include but are not limited to anger, sadness, depression, loneliness, isolation, disbelief, fear, shock, numbness, guilt, shame, anxiety, concern for the assailant, loss of control, loss of self, etc. Talking with a professional who is a confidential resource on or off campus can be a great way to express and process your feelings.

15/40 | Supporting Survivors

How can we help take care of our members who are survivors or secondary survivors of sexual assault? Why is it important to talk about supporting survivors? Let's go back to the feelings of when someone told you they were sexually assaulted. What tools/resources did they need? Did you know how to offer support and connect them with tools and resources?

Encourage sharing here and be prepared to provide tools and resources in a few minutes.

What are some ways we can show up for survivors? What things we can do to support survivors?

Guide discussion and allow participants time to come up with at least 4 examples. Once you have allowed time for participants to respond, share the following sentiment:

It can feel lonely or scary when you cannot "take away the pain or hurt" from someone who you care about. Remember what they need most is for you is to believe them, honor their trust, listen and never assign blame. As a secondary survivor, you can offer to help them explore their options. It is important to realize that we often take on the feelings and fears of a loved one's trauma. Do not hesitate to utilize resources to make sure you make your emotional health a priority. It is not selfish to take care of yourself. It is important.

Share that Delta Gamma have additional resources available in the Library including the Supporting Survivors Resource Guide and encourage members to take a look at it after the program.

Let participants know where the Campus Resource Worksheet is located and encourage participants to access these resources as needed.

5/45 | Closing

You are loved and valued. The purpose of this module was to help empower you to support each other in times of need, and to provide you with the tools and resources to do so.

- Did anything shared or discussed surprise you?
- Do you feel better equipped to support a friend, sister or loved one?

Mock Trial*

Program Description:

Mock Trial is a values-based approach to risk-management and liability education for collegians. The program includes a Mock Trial that mirrors a typical court proceeding and discussion of values and bystander behavior led by a Delta Gamma Fraternity attorney volunteer. Participants will identify risky behaviors such as substance abuse, academic dishonesty, hazing, harassment, personal safety concerns and other issues that are specific to your chapter and campus environment which will frame the trial.

How can my chapter get the program?

The Mock Trial Program can come to your chapter by request. Ideally, Mock Trial Request Forms should be submitted 4-6 weeks prior to your preferred date. It can be found in the Delta Gamma library. Based on the provided dates and times in your Mock Trial Request Form and the facilitators' schedules, Delta Gamma Fraternity will set a date and time for this program to be brought to your chapter. Once the date is set, it must be placed on your Anchorbase calendar.

Cost of the program:

The Mock Trial Program is fully funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation. The chapter is responsible for providing the facilitator a place to stay and meals during the visit.

Additional Information:

A Mock Trial presentation can take place in any venue that can comfortably accommodate your entire chapter. No AV equipment is needed.

Should you have to cancel Mock Trial at any time, your chapter will be responsible for all expenses incurred up to the date of cancellation.

Should you have any questions regarding the scheduling and preparation for Mock Trial, please reach out to Assistant Director of Education and Development for Prevention Programs Veronica Voll at vernoica@deltagamma.org or 614-481-8169.

This program is funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation.

This program is hold during the 2020-2021 academic year due to COVID-19.

*Completed as a chapter, not in small groups.

Letting Go of "You Do You"

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to identify key concerns surrounding alcohol consumption.
- Participants will be able to articulate the 6 Steps to Intervene.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- Flip Chart paper/large pieces of paper
- Pens/Markers
- Be Her Champion handout (for each participant)
- Alcohol and Drug Pre-Test & Reflection (for each participant)

Instructions:

10/10	Pre-Test
	Today, we are going to discuss alcohol and drugs and our choices. Research shows that alcohol and drug abuse are more common among Greek students than college students outside of Greek life (Source: U.S. Department of Education's Higher Education Center).
	Distribute the pre-test. After everyone is finished, review the fast
WS	facts section using the answer key. Allow a few minutes if anyone wants to share their responses to the reflection questions, but they do not have to share.
5/15	Reasons Why You Don't Intervene
	Ask the following question: What stops someone from intervening to help a friend who using alcohol problematic or using drugs?
	Using a flip chart, write down reasons why people do not intervene. Possible answers may include:
	Did not know the situation
	Did not want to be embarrassed if misread the situation
	Is not my responsibility
	I don't want to stand out
	I don't know what to say or do to help
	Retaliation – the person may get mad at me

• I don't like what she/he is doing, but they are still my friend.

Share that we are going to address one key reason: the "You Do You" Mentality. Have you ever thought, "She is choosing to do that, so it is not my problem" or "I am not a fan of her choice, but she can make her own decisions?" While we may think it is good to allow someone to do what they want without judging their decision making, what if the decision is not a good choice?

10/25 | Be Her Champion

Once a sister's choices are dangerous, we can no longer stand by and allow our sister to continue their bad decisions and follow the "you do you" mentality. We need to intervene. To help make the conversation easier, we have 6 steps to follow.

Distribute the Be Her Champion handout and ask each person to silently read the steps to themselves.

- Step 1: I care about you Let your friend know you care. You believe as a true friend, you should be honest with her.
- Step 2: This is what I see

 Describe the behaviors that cause your concern. Be specific as possible and give several examples you have witnessed. State facts as opposed to feelings and avoid labeling the behavior.
- Step 3: This is how what you do makes me feel
 Be clear that your friend's behavior has had an impact on you.
 Use "I" statements such as, "I was scared," "I was angry," or "I was sad." Connect these feelings with the behaviors rather than the person. Remind your friend that you care and that is why you are bringing this to her attention.
- Step 4: Do you understand where I am coming from?

 Provide an opportunity for your friend to respond to what he/she has heard you say. Expect some resistance. It is not easy to hear that our behavior has affected another person or that we might have a serious problem. It is important to recognize resistance as a normal reaction.
- Step 5: What can we do about this? Can we discuss some ideas?

If the person is willing to talk about change, brainstorm possible solutions and harm reduction behaviors. Share the resources available on your campus and in your community.

• Step 6: I will support you if you are willing to try
When you intervene, you start and end by letting your friend know that you care. Let your sister know she can count on you.

Let them know that you will support any positive changes they make

Ask the following questions:

- Which step is the easiest for you?
- Which step is the most difficult?

The Be Her Champion steps require you to have a conversation with the member. We know that you may encounter a situation where a conversation may not be the best option in the moment. You may need to intervene in that moment. We have two methods of intervention that enable you temporarily stop the problematic behavior: Delegate and Distract.

- Delegate to someone else: You may not feel comfortable or even safe intervening at the moment. Find someone else to help. Examples: Contact vp: social standards; get an older member to help you; if you are in a residence hall, delegate to an RA; call 911 if someone is in immediate danger. After the immediate situation, have a conversation with her using the Be Her Champion steps.
- Distract the person from the situation: You can be creative in implementing a distraction. You don't have to directly confront the person but distract them from the negative behavior. Examples: Ask your friend to go to the bathroom, suggest going to get food. After the immediate situation, have a conversation with her using the Be Her Champion steps.

20/45 | Scenarios

Explain that overcoming the "You Do You" mentality can be extremely intimidating, but it is critical to be able to have these conversations to best support our sisters. We are going to practice the intervention strategies including the 6 Steps in various scenarios.

Divide the small group into four even groups and distribute a scenario to each. Ask each group to determine how to intervene using direct, distract and delegate. For the direct method, they will use the Be Her Champion steps.

After 10 minutes, bring the group back together to share their responses. Supplement their response with the notes provided after each scenario.

Scenario 1

One of the new members mentioned that she doesn't like to drink. When you get to the party, everyone seems to be playing a drinking game and encourage the new member to join in. She initially declines but eventually gives in and looks to you for help.

Possible Responses:

- Direct: Use the Be Her Champion steps to have a conversation with the members playing a drinking game.
- Distract: Ask the new member if she wants to take a picture or get ready to go to the event. After the event, use the Be Her Champion steps to have a conversation.
- Delegate: Find another person who may feel more comfortable talking to members about encouraging drinking. After the event, use the Be Her Champion steps to have a conversation.

Scenario 2

You are at an off-campus party with some friends. One of your fellow sorority sisters is your designated driver for the night. About an hour into the party, you notice she is starting to drink. At the end of the night, she is holding her keys and asks if you are ready to leave. What do you say?

Possible Responses:

- Direct: Tell your friend that you are not comfortable with her driving home and that you all can Uber home. Use the Be Her Champion steps to have a conversation with her.
- Delegate: Ask someone else who you know hasn't been drinking to be the designated driver or share with the group that instead

- you will take an Uber tonight. After the party, use the Be Her Champion steps to have a conversation.
- Distract: Ask your friend to come and talk with another person. In the meantime, text another friend to come and pick you up or order an Uber to take you home safely. After the party, use the Be Her Champion steps to have a conversation.

Scenario 3

One of your sisters seems really stressed about her classes and maintaining a good GPA. She briefly mentions that she is taking Adderall to help her stay up later and study more. You know she isn't prescribed the medicine and that she could get in trouble with DG and your university. What should you do?

Possible Response:

Tell your friend that you are concerned about her Adderall use. Use the Be Her Champion steps to have a conversation with her.

Scenario 4

You are getting ready for a date party in a friend's room at the house with a group of friends. One person brings out a small bag of cocaine and asks the group of women who wants some. Some of the women begin walking towards her. What do you do or say?

Possible Response:

- Direct: Pull the member aside and share why you are concerned about the behavior using the Be Her Champion steps.
- Delegate: Delegate to your friend whose room it is and tell her your concern. You all could get in trouble for having it in the house.
- Distract: Ask the group or member with the drugs for help in deciding which shoes or earring to wear. After the event, use the Be Her Champion steps to have a conversation.

Conclude the conversation with the following sentiment: We hope you feel more confident and more comfortable in having some hard conversations with sister and friends. It is not always easy, but the risk of not stepping in and intervening is too great.

3. What are some signs of substance abuse and addictions? Changes in appearance, weight changes, mood swings, decreased academic performance, memory loss, self-harm, aggressive behavior, isolation, depression

The following six steps can help you plan what you are going to say when you are ready to intervene.

STEP 1

I CARE ABOUT YOU

Let vour friend know you care. You believe as a true friend, you should be honest with her.

THIS IS WHAT I SEE

Describe the behaviors that cause your concern. Be specific as possible and give several examples

THS IS HOW WHAT YOU DO MAKES ME FEEL

you have witnessed. State facts as opposed to feelings and avoid labeling the behavior.

Be clear that your friend's behavior has had an impact on you. Use "I" statements such as, "I was scared" "I was angry" or "I was sad" Connect these feelings with the behaviors you described in Step Two. Talk about the behavior rather than the person. Remind your friend that you care and that is why you are bringing this to her attention.

DO YOU UNDERSTAND WHERE I AM COMING FROM

Provide an opportunity for your friend to respond to what he/she has heard you say. Expect some resistance. It is not easy to hear that our behavior has affected another person or that we might have a serious problem. It is important to recognize resistance as a normal reaction.

STEP 5

WHAT CAN WE DO WE DISCUSS SOME IDEAS?

to talk about change,

STEP 6

I WILL SUPPORT YOU IF YOU ARE WILLING TO TRY

When you intervene, you start and end by letting your friend know that you care. Let your sister know she can count on you. Let them know that you will support any positive changes they make

The following three steps can help you plan what you are going to say when you are ready to intervene.

DIRECT

Discuss the problematic behaviors directly with the individual involved.

DELEGATE

STEP 2

to someone else:

You may not feel comfortable or even safe intervening at the moment. Find someone else to help.

EXAMPLES: an older member to help you; if you are in a residence hall, delegate to an RA; call 911 if someone is in immediate danger. After the immediate situation, have a conversation with her using the Be Her Champion steps.

DISTRACT

You can be creative in implementing a confront the person but distract them from the negative behavior.

EXAMPLES: Ask your friend to go to the bathroom, suggest going to get food. After the immediate situation, have a conversation with her using the Be Her Champion steps.

Exploring Sex, Gender and Sexual Identity

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to define sex, gender identity and sexual identity
- Participants will be able to recognize the difference between sex, gender identity and sexual identity
- Participants will be able to identify how assumptions about sex, gender identity and sexual identity can be harmful

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- Writing utensil (one per participant)
- Projector and computer to display The Gender Unicorn graphic; if unable to project, provide a copy of The Gender Unicorn handout (one per participant)
- Flip chart paper/large piece of paper/white board
- Marker/white board marker

Before the Program You Need To:

- Ensure the Campus Resource Worksheet is up to date prior to the session
- Print out handout(s) for each participant or email to each member if completing virtually
- Ensure you can project the image of The Gender Unicorn

Instructions:

2/2	Welcome
	Today we are going to be discussing the differences between sex, gender identity and sexual identity. Sometimes we can conflate these terms, or use them as synonyms for one another, when they are actually quite different.
	In order to better understand the differences between these terms, we're going to take a look at The Gender Unicorn, developed by TSER, or Trans Student Educational Resources.

WS Project the image of The Gender Unicorn or distribute The Gender Unicorn handout to participants. 15/17 The Gender Unicorn This image is used to breakdown the way we think and talk about sex, gender identity and sexual identity. Let's start by talking about sex, or as it is more appropriately defined, sex assigned at birth. Sex assigned at birth is the assignment and classification of people as male, female, intersex or another sex based on a combination of anatomy, hormones, and chromosomes. Sex is most commonly assigned by a medical professional through visual identification at the time of birth. Sex is the biological and anatomical, assumptions we make about one's internal and external body that include hormones, chromosomes, genitals, reproductive organs, etc., as well as parts of a body that are related to genetics like size, hair, voice, and fat storage. Next we'll look at gender identity. Gender identity is a person's internal sense of being male, female, neither of these, both of these, or another gender or genders. Everyone has a gender identity and they can vary tremendously from person to person, or even in ourselves over the course of our lifetime. At birth, people are typically labeled as male or female based on visible anatomy. That anatomy can either align or not align with our internal sense of gender. At some point, we develop an understanding of our gender identity and either affirm the label we were assigned at birth or reject it. For transgender people, the gender assigned at birth does not align with internal sense of gender identity. The term Cisgender (cis- meaning congruent) is used to describe those that affirm how they were labeled and/or socialized at birth. Gender identities can be fluid and are up to each of us to determine for ourselves. Our gender expression is the way we present our gender identity to the world. This could be feminine. masculine, androgynous (partly male and partly female in appearance), or a mixture/combination that may vary in a moment, day to day, or over a period of time. We can express our gender through our clothing, hairstyle, voice, and body shape, among others. Finally, let's explore sexual identity. Our sexual identities are who we are attracted to sexually, romantically, and/or emotionally.

Who we are attracted to can be fixed or fluid, and can change over time.

Take a moment to think about where you may fall on each of the scales listed on The Gender Unicorn worksheet. It's important to note that many of these identities do not exist on a binary, there are many ways to experience our identities.

Ask participants to turn to a partner and discuss the following question. If you are completing the program virtually, put the members in breakout rooms of two to discuss:

What surprised you about The Gender Unicorn?

Ask participants to turn to a new partner to discuss the following question. If you are completing the program virtually, put the members in breakout rooms of two to discuss:

How difficult was it for you to plot where you may fall on The Gender Unicorn scales?

15/32 The Triangle

Draw an upside-down triangle on flip chart paper, or a white board. In the upper right-hand corner of the triangle, write "Gender." In the upper left-hand corner of the triangle, write "Sex." Underneath the bottom point of the triangle, write "Sexual Identity." You can also have this drawn out and prepared before the presentation. If completing virtually, create this on a PPT slide or document and share your screen.

Now that we've learned a little more about the differences between each of these terms, we're going to dive a little deeper into this topic and explore sex, gender identity and sexual identity through the triangle exercise.

These three terms can often be confused or used as synonyms, particularly sex and gender identity. However, when we conflate them, we can cause real harm to someone.

Ask the group and then write down the answers they provide under "Sex."

When you think of sex, what comes to mind? (Some possible answers may include penis, vagina, intersex, genitalia, biology, science, etc.)

We tend to think of sex as binary- someone is either male or female- but someone who is intersex, or has an intersex condition, may have an internal or external combination of male and female characteristics. Please note that using the term intersex or intersex condition is preferred to the term hermaphrodite.

Sometimes when we think of sex, we also think of secondary characteristics like breasts, hair, voice, Adam's apples, etc. However, these are biological or anatomical elements that are dependent on hormones and genetics, and then interpreted by society.

Ask the group and then write down the answers they provide under "Gender."

When you think of gender, what comes to mind? (Some possible answers may include feminine, masculine, transgender, gender variant, etc.)

Looking at these terms, some of the things we think of relate to roles, identity and expression. Roles are things like the jobs and hobbies we tend to associate with a certain gender expression. Identity relates to the terms we use to define our gender identity, like femme, man or woman. Expression is how we present our gender identity, like clothing and mannerisms. Roles, identity and expression are elements of gender that we can control.

Alternatively, some of these terms relate to perception, which is how others see us. You can try to express yourself in a way that may align with how you identify and that may correlate with your roles, but it is really up to other people to determine how they perceive you. Sometimes we make assumptions about people based on our perceptions that are not accurate. As observers, our gender perception of others can either validate or invalidate another person's identity, which can be disempowering. This is why being an ally or advocate is so important. Later, we're going to discuss ways in which our assumptions about other's sex, gender identity and sexual identity can be harmful.

Again, we want to be careful to note that people do not have to express their gender in terms of the male/female binary. Woman or Man are the binary_assumptions while there are a number of terms used to describe someone that vary by geography and/or age that include more than two options, like non-binary, gender fluid, gender nonconforming, gender variant, gender expansive, Agender, etc. For example, a gender variant person can purposefully express themselves, take on roles, and identify in ways that don't align with the male/female binary. While a transgender person may have been assigned one gender identity at birth but identify as an entirely different gender.

Ask the group and then write down the answers they provide under "Sexual Identity."

When you think of sexual identity, what comes to mind? (Some possible answers may include lesbian, gay, bisexual, straight, queer, asexual, etc.)

When thinking about sexual identities, it can be easy to think in terms of a binary between either straight or LGBTQIA+ but we want to be sure to acknowledge that folks who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, queer, asexual or something other are not monolithic, and that is why we don't use the term "homosexual" to group all of these folks together. There are also many more identities that are not included in this acronym, including pan(sexual) and omnisexual. Relationships with more than one partner can be described as Polyamorous and/or Non-Monogamous. Additionally, we want to also acknowledge that transgender is not a sexual identity. A trans person has a sexual identity before and after transition but being trans itself isn't a sexual identity.

10/42 Assumptions

Let's take a moment to discuss our assumptions. As we've seen, it can be easy to confuse sex, gender identity and sexual identity. However, it can be harmful to do so. Turn to a partner to discuss why this might be harmful.

If completing virtually, place the small group in breakout rooms of two.

After a few minutes, ask for a few volunteers to share their response. If not mentioned, please share the following thoughts:

- Assumptions can perpetuate unjust systems of sexism and heterosexism and can lead to oppression and violence, which disproportionately affect members of the LGBTQIA+ community, especially trans women of color
- False assumptions about sex, gender and sexual identity can lead us to form unconscious biases, which can have real-

- world effects where we advantage people who are similar to us and disadvantage people who are dissimilar to us.
- Assuming the way in which someone identifies can ultimately lead us to falsely label them, which can make aspects of their identity feel dismissed, ignored, and invalidated.
- Assumptions we make about sex, gender, and sexual identity shape the structures and norms of society, including policy, law, education, employment, etc. When those assumptions are false, people can be harmed and oppressed.

Now let's reflect on how this might show up in our chapter. Turn to a partner to discuss how this might relate to the chapter and to Delta Gamma.

If completing virtually, place members in breakout rooms of two.

After a few minutes, ask for a few volunteers to share their response. If not mentioned, please share the following thoughts:

- Assumptions we make about members' and new members' identities may shape our organization's policies, bylaws, and norms. When those assumptions are false, people can be harmed and oppressed. For example, if we assume all members physically attracted to men this may show-up in how we describe date parties.
- Assumptions can lead to the creation of barriers to entry to our organizations; think about the norms we have around what we ask members to wear (e.g., a dress), topics to discuss (or not), etc. during recruitment.
- Assuming the way in which someone identifies can lead to members and new members feeling dismissed, invalidated and unwelcome.
- Affinity bias is when we favor someone who is like us. Think of how assumptions we make about people during recruitment can affect who we welcome, or don't, into our chapters.

3/45	Conclusion
	As we wrap up, turn to a partner and discuss one thing you learned or that surprised you about our conversation today.
	After a few minutes ask for any volunteers that would be comfortable sharing their thoughts on the discussion.
	Remind members and new members that if they are looking to get more involved in their campus community related to social justice, diversity, equity and inclusion to review the Campus Resource Worksheet provided at the beginning of the academic year by the vp: member education. This worksheet lists campus offices that support this work. Also remind chapter members and new members to view www.deltagamma.org/inclusion for ideas on how to get involved on campus.
	Thank participants for sharing and remind them to continue to think through the ideas discussed today and how our assumptions about sex, gender identity and sexual identity can impact others.

Definition of Terms

Binary – the system of thinking that perpetuates that someone is either male or female. This disregards someone who is intersex, or has an intersex condition, who may have an internal or external combination of male and female characteristics. Woman or Man are the binary assumptions while there are a number of terms used to describe someone that vary by geography and/or age that include more than two options, like non-binary, gender fluid, gender nonconforming, gender variant, gender expansive, Agender, etc.

Cisgender – (cis- meaning congruent) a person whose gender identity affirms or aligns with how they were labeled and/or socialized at birth.

Gender expression – the way we present our gender identity to the world.

Gender identity – a person's internal sense of being male, female, neither of these, both of these, or another gender or genders.

LGBTQIA+ – this acronym refers to the group of people who identify as something other than cisgender and/or heterosexual. However, there are also many more identities that are not included in this acronym, including pan(sexual) and omnisexual. This is not a monolithic term. The acronym stands for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, intersex, and asexual, with the "+" encompassing other identities.

Sex/Sex assigned at birth – the assignment and classification of people as male, female, intersex or another sex based on a combination of anatomy, hormones, and chromosomes.

Sexual identity – the way in which we define who we are attracted to sexually, romantically and/or emotionally.

Transgender – a person whose sex assigned at birth does not align with their internal sense of gender identity.

Chapter-Developed Program

Chapters may select to develop their own program for any of the four values. In order to conduct a chapter-developed program, utilize the following template and submit it 6 weeks prior to the scheduled program to your RCS/CAC/NCC and to the assistant executive director & director of education & development (DGDialogues@deltagamma.org) for approval.

Learning Objective:

- Participants will be able to discuss the main points presented by campus program.
- Participants will be able to articulate how the main points apply to their individual lives.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

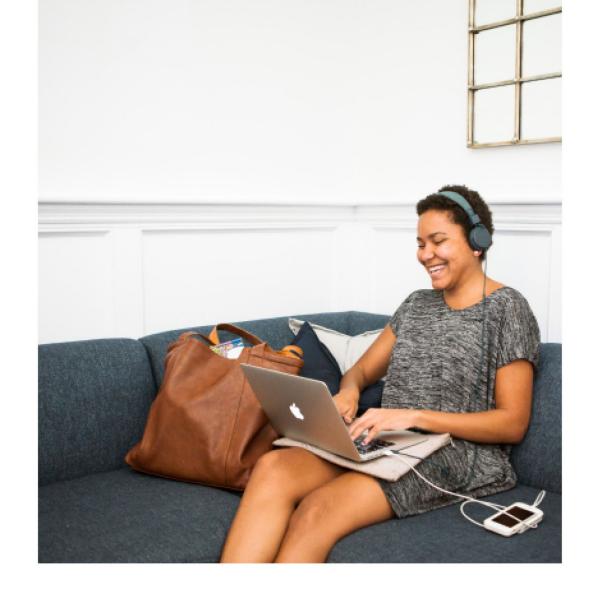

• Facilitation Questions for Small Groups

Before the Program You Need to:

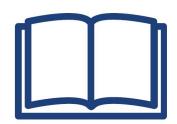

- Attended the designated campus program. It is best to plan this facilitated discussion as close to the program as possible.
- Have a copy of the learning outcomes or purpose of the campus program for each small group.
- Make notes during the program of follow up questions that could be asked during small group discussion. A common list of follow up questions should be developed by the vp: member education and shared with each small group to be used during Step 2.

15/15	Key Takeaway
	Ask each small group member to share their key takeaway, or main point, from the event and how they would implement that key point in their life. Example: speaker focuses on hazing – what role do you play in ensuring hazing is not a part of chapter activities. Limit each member to one main point due to time constraints.
15/30	What Role Do You Play
	Pose any specific question the speaker(s) asked you to reflect on during the program or after the program.
	If there were no questions posed, ask the following questions:
	How can you be proactive in addressing this issue?
	What role does your chapter or the fraternity/sorority community
	play in addressing this issue?

15/45	Step 2 - Connection to Article II
Fac Note	Step 2 may take the full 30 minutes depending on the list of questions generated. If that is the case this step may be eliminated. Ask each small group member to discuss what the speaker's mission was and how it connects to Article II: The objects of this Fraternity shall be to foster high ideals of friendship among women, to promote their educational and cultural interests, to create in them a true sense of social responsibility and to develop in them the best qualities of character. Thank the small group members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

EDUCATION & CULTURAL INTEREST PROGRAMS

Select one of the following for your education and cultural interest program:

- Chapter-Developed Scholarship Program*
- Learning Outside the Classroom*
- Exploring Modern Day Etiquette
- Social Identities 101
- The Importance of Language
- Social Justice Issues Race & Ethnicity
- Budgeting Basics
- Personal Finances in a Nutshell
- Delta Gamma History

Chapter-Developed Scholarship Program*

Ask campus professional(s) to speak to your chapter about a current scholarship need within the chapter. Topics may include: time management, study strategies, note-taking, selecting a major, finding internships, etc. You may consider offering several programs simultaneously and allowing members to attend the program of their choice.

Learning Outside the Classroom*

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to share personal experiences and information on study abroad, internships, co-ops or other related educational programming.
- Participants will be able to learn about study abroad, internship, co-ops and other related educational programming opportunities.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

Option #1:

- Projector & Screen
- List of campus resources for study abroad programs and other specialty programs to members (one per participant)

Option #2:

- List of campus resources for study abroad programs and other specialty programs to members (one per participant)
- Table for each member presenting in fair
- Sign-off card (one per participant)
- Prize for sign-off card

Before the Program You Need to:

- Identify members who were studying abroad, completing internships, co-ops or other related educational programming or on academic professional standing (APS). Invite these members to share their experiences with the chapter for this program. Encourage them to share appropriate photos and discuss their experiences, including the application process and how to plan for the experience, what they learned/enjoyed and how the experience promoted their educational or cultural interests.
- Determine the presentation style for these members to share their experiences. In chapters where only a few members (less than five) participated in one of these programs, a presentation to the chapter may be appropriate. In chapters where many members participated, it may be more appropriate to set up booths or tables for each participating member so others can visit each member and talk more candidly about the experiences. If you are utilizing the booth format, consider utilizing a card to be signed off at each station to encourage chapter members to visit each location. Consider offering a prize for members who fill up their card. Sign off card may include specific questions they need to have answered at each booth. For example:

- o Where did Anna Boyd study abroad last term?
- o What internship program was Eva Webb involved with last term?
- o What language did Mary Comfort learn?
- o What is Hannah's favorite landmark?
- Determine what study abroad or other APS programs (internships, student teaching, co-ops, etc.) are available at your university/college.
 Obtain information on how to apply for the various programs through your university/college. If you are choosing the booth/table option, consider having a guest speaker from the school staff at a table to share more information.

Instructions:

Introduce all members who studied abroad, completed internships, co-ops or other related educational programming or were on APS. Include their name, their year in school and the name of the program.

Option 1 - Chapter presentation

35/35	Member Presentations
33,33	 Have each member present and include the following in the presentation: Name of the program. How the member became involved in that program (e.g., graduation requirement, personal interest, etc.)? How long the member was part of the program? How did the member prepare for the experience? Summary of the experience. (i.e., where did the member travel? what did the member study? etc.) Share favorite parts of the member's experience. How did the experience promote the member's personal educational and cultural interests? Share appropriate photos/videos, if possible. Visuals are helpful in keeping membership engaged.
Fac Note	Limit each member to 5-10 minutes of presentation time, depending on how many members are presenting, not to exceed 35 minutes.

WS	Provide handouts on programs or a list of campus resources for study abroad programs and other specialty programs to members.
10/45	Question & Answer
·	Allow participants to ask questions. It may be helpful for some of these questions to be pre-arranged with members to get questions started from the membership. Examples may include: • Would you recommend this experience? Would you do it again? • If you could do it again, what is one thing you would have done differently?
	 What was the most meaningful part of your experience? Did you get to do/see everything you were expecting? Thank the members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

Option 2 – Opportunities Fair

30/30	Opportunities Fair
	Explain that each member who studied abroad, completed internships, co-ops or other related educational programming or were on APS has a table/booth setup with souvenirs, displays, photos, etc. to share.
	Indicate that the University/College also has a table/booth to provide information to members on their specific programs, requirements, and application processes. [If this is not possible, provide a handout to members on programs or a list of campus resources for programs.]
Fac	Encourage chapter members to visit each table/booth and explain
Note	the sign-off card and prize available.
15/45	Question and Answer
	Gather the chapter together and ask the participating members to sit at the front of the room. Ask the participating members, the following questions: • How did your experience promote your educational and cultural interests?
	If you could do it again, what is one thing you would have done differently?
	What was the most meaningful part of your experience?
	Thank the members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

Exploring Modern Day Etiquette

- Participants will be able to connect the importance of etiquette to their Delta Gamma membership

Time Allotted: 45 minutes Materials Required:

- Internet connection
- Computer
- Projector
- DG Modern Day Etiquette challenge (from Kahoot.com)
- Video Digital Age Etiquette
- Chapter members will need phones/laptops/tablets

Before the Program You Need to:

- Create an account on kahoot.com
 - Note: you can use kahoot as any of the four options they give (teacher, student, socially, or at work)
 - Once your account has been created, log in and search for "DG Modern Day Etiquette"
 - When the game appears on your screen, click "Play" on the lefthand side
 - o On the next screen, under "Player vs. Player," click "Classic"
 - o The next screen should populate your "Game PIN"
 - From here, follow the facilitator guide below to connect chapter members to the game
- Find and test the video needed for the end of the program
- Select a small group facilitator to lead the beginning activity for the entire chapter before breaking up into small groups

2/2	Introduction
Fac Note	As chapter members arrive, ask them to sit with their small groups, although the program will begin with the large group.
	Welcome and thank you for coming! Today's DG Dialogue program is about modern-day etiquette. You may know etiquette as a series of manners and expectations around formal meals. Etiquette also exists in other arenas and today we are going to touch on digital, wedding, meal and professional etiquette, to name a few. It is important to note that etiquette is a set of cultural customs and is different throughout the world and even throughout families. Today, we are going to talk about etiquette as generalized in American culture. We will start in a large group all together and will end with discussions in our small groups. Please take out your phones/laptops/tablets - however you prefer to access the internet. I'll give you instructions to access our etiquette challenge. 10/12 Etiquette Challenge Give the instructions below to the chapter members so that they can access the etiquette challenge. Fac Make sure the Kahoot Game PIN can be seen on the screen and Note – instruct chapter members to do the following: Chapt er - Pull out their phone/tablet/computer instruc - Visit Kahoot.it tions - Enter the Game PIN from the screen - Enter their full name (this is recommended rather than a "nickname" so that you can track participation) - Once the Game PIN is entered, participants will be taken to a screen that shows all players. NOTE: you should see as many players here as are in your meeting! 1. Once all members are listed on screen, click "Start" and the first question will begin! Members will answer on their phone/tablet/computer 2. Everyone will have 30 seconds to respond Fac Note 3. Once the number who have answered the question matches the number of people playing, click "Next" to show the scoreboard 4. Click "Next" again to start the next question. Repeat steps 1-4 for each question. There are 10 questions total. Take any initial reactions from chapter members and then transition to watching the video below together.

10/22	Video
	Thank you for participating in the Etiquette Challenge! Now we are going to watch a video together. Once the video is over, we will transition to discussion in your small groups. Play this video: Digital Age Etiquette: Evan Selinger at TEDxFlourCity
27//5	Small group leaders will take it from here!
23/45 Fac Note	Small Group Discussion Small group leaders should then lead a discussion with their small groups.
	 Ask the following questions: What are your initial thoughts about the video? What did you like about what he said? Was there anything you disliked? He calls etiquette a "pro-social" gesture. What do you think about that definition? What etiquette practices could you improve? What are some etiquette tips you know that are important for us to all be aware of? Professional etiquette? Meal etiquette? Etiquette for communicating with professors? Why are we talking about etiquette in a Delta Gamma program? Why is etiquette important as a member? After our discussion today, how would you describe etiquette? Share in conclusion: The information presented in the quiz today was adapted from advice given on EmilyPost.com. Emily Post was an author famous for writing and teaching about etiquette. She defines etiquette as: "a code of behavior based on treating others with honesty, respect, and consideration. This finds its way into every interaction we have, from planning a party or calculating a tip to writing a thank-you note or taking a cell phone call in public (or not!)." Ask the final processing question: What are some of your take-aways from today's DG Dialogues

Social Identities 101

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to understand diverse groups' perspectives to assist with members' perspectives.
- Participants will be able to understand their own social identity.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- Colored pencil (one per participant)
- Projector or computer to play video
- Internet connection
- Sometimes You're a Caterpillar Video -https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hRiWgx4sHGg
- Small circle stickers in two different colors (for each participant)
- Social Identity Wheel Handout (one per participant)
- Completed Campus Resource Worksheet emailed out to every member and new member or displayed somewhere all members and new members have access

Before the Program You Need To:

• Ensure the Campus Resource Worksheet is up to date prior to the session

15/15	Social Identity Wheel
Tonight, we will discuss social identities and discuss how to impacts our chapter. Social Identity is defined as how we ourselves in relation to others. These are constructed by so Some of them are fluid and evolving, meaning they are not static.
WS	Distribute the social identity wheel. Explain that the bottom of the wheel includes social identity categories and a few examples. Indicate that in each part of the wheel each participant should write how they identify with that category.
	After participants complete the wheel, explain that they will use the colored pencils to fill in each area based off how much they think about that specific identity. If you think about it every day you will shade in the entire piece of the wheel; if you think about it occasionally you would shade in part of it; if you never think about that identity you would leave it unshaded. Distribute the colored pencils.

Break the group into pairs and ask them to share their identity wheel and which identity they would like to learn more about.

10/25 | Reflection

Give each student two small stickers. Ask the members to put the [identify which color] sticker on the identity they think the most about. Put the [the other color] sticker on the identity you think the least about.

Ask the small groups these questions:

- Looking around the room which identities do our members think about the most?
- Which identities do we think about the least?
- What does that tell us about our small group?
- Why is it important to be aware of the identities that are not present?

15/40 | Sometimes You're a Caterpillar

Video

Play the video Sometimes You're a Caterpillar: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hRiWgx4sHGg

Ask the following questions:

- What is your response to this video?
- How does this relate to the chapter?
- When have you been a caterpillar?
- When has our chapter acted as a caterpillar?
- How do your identities play out in your experience in the chapter?

5/5 Conclusion

Turn over your paper and write one thing you learned or an aha moment.

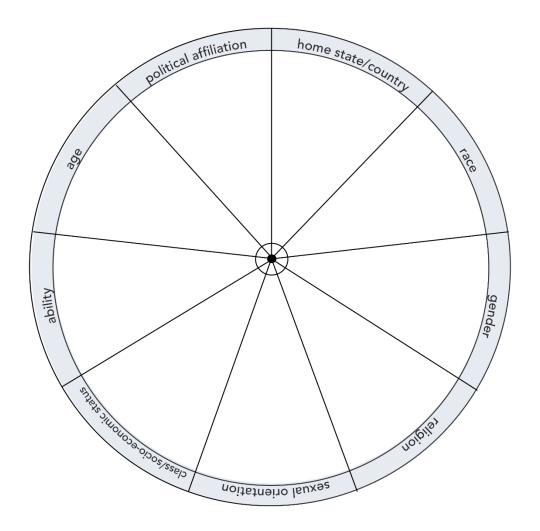

Ask for any volunteers that feel comfortable sharing their thoughts on the discussion.

Remind members and new members that if they are looking to get more involved in their campus community related to social justice, diversity, equity and inclusion to review the Campus Resource Worksheet provided at the beginning of the academic year by the vp: member education. This worksheet lists campus offices that support this work. Also remind chapter members and new members to view www.deltagamma.org/inclusion for ideas on how to get involved on campus.

Let members know to visit https://www.deltagamma.org/inclusion for Delta Gamma webinars on implicit bias, social class, White privilege, and microaggressions along with other diversity, equity and inclusion resources.

Thank the small group members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

The Importance of Language

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to define the terminology that is commonly used in the LGBTQ community.
- Participants will be able to understand how coming out affects college students, especially fraternity/sorority members.
- Participants will be able to recognize the impact of homonegativity on the fraternity/sorority community.
- Participants will be able to identify ways to support fraternal members who identify in the LGBTQ community.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- Flip Chart paper/large pieces of paper
- Pens/Markers
- 1 set of terminology cards
- Completed Campus Resource Worksheet emailed out to every member and new member or displayed somewhere all members and new members have access

Before the Program You Need To:

- Ensure the Campus Resource Worksheet is up to date prior to the session
- Cut the terminology cards into terms and definitions

20/20	Terminology
	Ask the following question: Why is inclusive language important?
	Why should we use it?
	Share the following excerpt from the National LGBTI Health Alliance 2013:
	"Language is inclusive when we use words in ways that demonstrate our respect for how people describe their own genders, bodies and relationships. It is important to show this respect even when we are describing people who are not present."

Inclusive language creates a comfortable environment and makes people feel welcome and important.

WS

Hand each participant one of the terminology term and definition cards. Ensure all cards are distributed. Give multiple cards to one person if necessary.

Explain that we are going to play a terminology matching game. Provide the following instructions:

- 1. You will receive a word or phrase and/or a definition
- 2. Find the terminology match by mingling around the room
- 3. When you find the definition, take it.
- 4. Give away your definition when you find the person who has the word.
- 5. When you think you've found your match, return to seats.

After everyone has found their seat, have each person say their word and definition. If a term is wrong, adjust accordingly and explain the correct definition and terminology.

15/35 | How Homonegativity Hurts the Fraternity/Sorority Community

Split the group into groups of 5-8 members. With the large flip chart paper provided, divide the sheet in half, labeling one side "Straight Members" and the other "LGBTQ Members."

Remind participants of the definition of homonegativity, which is negative attitudes that devalue identities or people and can also be internalized in oneself.

Ask each group to brainstorm how homonegativity impacts both the LGBTQ members and straight members in the chapter and record responses on flipchart.

After 10 minutes ask each group to share their lists. If not shared, share the following:

LGBTQ members

- Not coming out/being true self in fear of harassment/retaliation
- Living in constant fear of being "outed"
- Maintain feelings of not belonging

Straight Members

Inhibit close friendships/sisterhood among members who identify as LBGTQ

• Create hostility in chapter between members who identify as straight and as LGBTQ

10/45 How Can You Support Your Sisters and Fraternity/sorority Members?

Ask the group to form pairs or triads. Give each group a scenario and ask the group to discuss ways they can support members who identify in the LGBTQ community.

Scenario 1: A sister just came out to you that she identifies as a lesbian. She isn't ready to tell the rest of your member class. What should you do?

Suggestions for answers: Thank her for opening up and trusting you. Ensure you will maintain confidentiality. Ask how you can best support her.

Scenario 2: You and your friends are getting ready for a date party. One is dressed up as a baseball player. Someone shouts, "You look like a complete lesbian."

Suggestions for answers: Approach the friend and say that her comment made you feel uncomfortable.

Scenario 3: You are hanging out with some friends and someone suggests getting food. One says that she needs to stay in to study, and the other friend states, "That's so gay. Just come with us." How do you respond?

Suggestions for answers: Suggest to the friend that the language makes you uncomfortable and unwelcoming. Suggest not using that phrase again.

Share the following suggestions for support:

- 1. Communicate Support
 - Listen
 - Respect their choice to tell you by letting them know you won't tell others
 - Understand the personal risk taken to tell you
 - Offer support through the coming out process
- 2. Remember the meaning of sisterhood
 - Do not shy away from that person
 - Realize that nothing has to change with your friendship and sisterhood
- 3. Don't be a Bystander
 - Don't participate in harmful conversations
 - Educate yourself about current issues
 - Advocate for change within your chapter, university and community

• Confront the issue directly or be subtle when challenging

Remind members and new members that if they are looking to get more involved in their campus community related to social justice, diversity, equity and inclusion to review the Campus Resource Worksheet provided at the beginning of the academic year by the vp: member education. This worksheet lists campus offices that support this work. Also remind chapter members and new members to view www.deltagamma.org/inclusion for ideas on how to get involved on campus.

Let members know to visit https://www.deltagamma.org/inclusion for Delta Gamma webinars on implicit bias, social class, White privilege, and microaggressions along with other diversity, equity and inclusion resources.

Thank the small group members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

Video	Watch the MTV Decoded "5 Things You Should Know About Racism" -
	https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8eTWZ80z9EE&app=desktop Quickly review the 5 main points of the video:
	1. Good People Can Be Unintentionally Racist
	2. Racism Is A Social Construct
	3. Colorblindness is Not Going To Fix Racism
	4. Reverse Racism Is Not a Thing
	5. Racism Isn't Just About Individuals, It's About Institutional Power
	Let the group know you are going to focus on point number 1 for the rest of the discussion.
	Share the following sentiment: The speaker in the video provided an example about someone stepping on your toe accidently. The person didn't mean to step on your toe, but it still hurt. This is an example of the concept "Intent v Impact."
	Read the following from Dr. Maura Cullen's Book 35 Dumb Things Well-Intended People Say: "Even well-intended people cause harm. As such people will often make statements which they intend or perceive to be supportive or complimentary, yet end up being problematic."
	 Ask the following questions: Share an example of when have you experienced or witnessed intent versus impact. The example does not have to be focused on race. How did it make you feel? How did you or others respond? Some groups may experience the intent v impact more than other groups. Why is that?
15/40	Equity versus Equality
	Share the following sentiment: The idea behind the "American Dream" is that if you work hard enough you will be rewarded. One of the challenges with this concept is that not everyone is provided equal opportunity to succeed. This is the idea behind our next concept of "Equity v Equality".
	Read the following story about "Equity v Equality": Equality is like giving everyone a pair of size 8 women's shoes. Regardless of your shoe size, you got a size 8 women's shoe.

Obviously, the shoe is going to fit some people better more than others and we all will try our best to cope with what we have. Now, let's imagine that every month we will run a race with those shoes. The race represents how oppression is institutionalized. The winners of the race will have wealth, access to resources, opportunities in the job market, investments, access to food, the "best" land, etc. Did I choose my shoe size? No... but a system was set up to reward folks with a certain size of foot and disadvantage everyone else. Will the best runners win the race? Arguably, no. More often than not, the people with size 8 women's feet will finish closer to the top. Yes, some of the best runners will be able to place higher without the correct shoe size; however, this would not be a common occurrence. On the other hand, equity would be having everyone get a pair of shoes in their own size.

- From Dr. Maura Cullen (https://gamingforjustice.com/2015/10/21/balancing-a-board-game-equality-versus-equity/)

Ask the following questions:

- Give an example of something you have experienced or witnessed that demonstrates equity v equality.
- Do you feel like you live in a society that operates from an equity point of view or an equality point of view?

5/45 Conclusion

Conclude by asking group members to answer the two wrap-up questions at the bottom of their worksheet. Once they have answered they should turn to a partner and share their answers.

Remind members and new members that if they are looking to get more involved in their campus community related to social justice, diversity, equity and inclusion to review the Campus Resource Worksheet provided at the beginning of the academic year by the vp: member education. This worksheet lists campus offices that support this work. Also remind chapter members and new members to view www.deltagamma.org/inclusion for ideas on how to get involved on campus.

Social Justice: Race and Ethnicity

Definitions

Race - A social construct that artificially divides people into distinct groups based on characteristics such as physical appearance (particularly skin color), ancestral heritage, cultural affiliation or history, ethnic classification, and/or the social, economic, and political needs of a society at a given period of time. Scientists agree that there is no biological or genetic basis for racial categories. Examples of race categories are: Black or African American, American Indian or Alaska Native, Asian, Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander, White. (categories are listed per the U.S. Census Bureau)

Ethnicity - A social construct that divides people into social groups based on characteristics such as shared sense of group membership, values, behavioral patterns, language, political and economic interests, history, and ancestral geographical location. Members of an ethnic group are often presumed to be culturally or biologically similar, although this is not in fact necessarily the case. Examples of ethnic groups identified in the U.S. are: Cape Verdean, Haitian, African American; Chinese, Korean, Vietnamese; Cherokee, Mohawk, Navajo; Jamaican, Cuban, Mexican, Puerto Rican; Polish, Trinidadian, Irish, and French.

Wrap Up Questions What is your commitment to intervene in these situations? What will you do in the future should you hear someone make a comment, share something via social media, etc. that can be perceived as racist?

3 .	How did this program promote your educational and cultural interests?

5/5	Introduction
Slides	Welcome everyone to Budgeting Basics, a program funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation. CHANGE SLIDE

Today we're going to talk about budgeting, which is an important part of staying financially organized. These are lessons that will hopefully benefit you now as a student, as well as after you graduate and join the workforce. Money can be a very stressful subject for some people, so we ask that you approach today's exercises with an open mind. CHANGE SLIDE

People tend to be intimidated by budgeting. It can feel like an overwhelming task, but it doesn't have to be. In the words of Tsh Oxenreider, "The simplest definition of a budget is telling your money where to go." CHANGE SLIDE

So where does money in your budget go? Typically, it can go three places:

- 1. Budget needs This includes the basics such as rent, utilities, transportation, and groceries.
- 2. Budget wants This includes the fun stuff such as dining out, travel, subscriptions, and charitable donations.
- Savings goals This includes retirement, building an emergency fund, and saving for big purchases. CHANGE SLIDE

Our goal for today is to give you some more hands-on practice at putting together a basic budget of needs, wants, and savings goals. Don't worry, we'll be using some hypothetical numbers! CHANGE SLIDE

WS Pass out the DG Budget Profiles. Each facilitator should keep the DG Budget Profiles Answer Key handy as a reference, in case a student has difficulty with the exercise.

Now, everyone should have a DG Budget Profiles worksheet. These Profiles each have different careers or professions, live in different cities, have different salaries, and different budget needs, wants, and savings goals. CHANGE SLIDE

Over the course of this workshop, we're going to be filling out these basic budget templates together. Then, we'll be checking to see whether the budget is actually balanced. Finally, we'll be recommending some budget changes of what to do with extra money or how to cut back on spending, depending on the results. CHANGE SLIDE

10/15 Budget Needs

First, let's take a look at budget needs. CHANGE SLIDE

Budget needs are the purchases are that are harder to live without:

- 1. Housing. This basically means your rent (or mortgage, if you own a home).
- 2. Utilities. These will vary depending on where you live, but common utilities include electricity, natural gas, water, sewage, internet, and cable.
- 3. Transportation. If you have a car, this could include car payments, insurance, and gas. However, transportation also includes items such as public transportation and rideshares.
- 4. Health. In addition to health insurance, this can include copays and medical bills for doctor's visits, medications, and therapist visits.
- 5. Debt payments. In order to keep your credit score nice and high, it's important to make at least the minimum payments on all debt, such as student loans, credit cards, and personal loans.
- 6. Necessities. This includes groceries and other household goods that you use on a day to day basis. CHANGE SLIDE

Your needs depend on a few factors, such as:

- 1. Where you live. For example, some areas have higher costs of living than others.
- 2. Your career. Some workplaces assist with budget needs such as your health insurance or cell phone bill.
- 3. Your lifestyle. You do have some control over your Budget Needs. For example, you may choose whether you have roommates, whether you drive a car, and what types of groceries you prefer. CHANGE SLIDE

Now, let's take a look at the DG Budget Profile you've been given. You'll need to read through the "Budget Needs" portion of your DG Profile to learn about your person's expenses, career, and lifestyle. For each budget needs category, use the information from the description to fill in the budget template. There may be some categories that don't apply to your person. If that's the case, put in a zero.

Give participants 5 minutes to fill in the "Budget Needs" section of the budget template, then CHANGE SLIDE

10/25 | Budget Wants and Savings Goals

Now, let's talk about some budget wants and savings goals. CHANGE SLIDE

Budget wants are the things that might be fun to have, but you have much more control over. These are things that can be expanded when money is flowing, or cut back if money is tight. Budget wants include:

- 1. Shopping and dining out, such as trips to restaurants and coffee shops.
- 2. Health and beauty treatments such as massages, salon treatments, and trips to the spa.
- 3. Subscriptions such as Netflix, Spotify, Amazon prime, and other services that renew on a regular basis.
- 4. Travel, such as larger and small trips, plane tickets, hotels, and food and incidentals while on the road.
- 5. Charitable donations or gifts. CHANGE SLIDE

In addition, no good budget is complete without savings goals. Examples of savings goals include:

- 1. Retirement. Even if you love what you do, you won't want to do it forever. Starting early is one of the best ways to ensure retirement success.
- 2. Building an Emergency Fund. Life happens, so making sure you're prepared for that flat tire, emergency trip home, or unexpected doctors visit is vital.
- 3. Short-Term Milestones. From vacations to life purchases such as laptops and new phones, you may have some short-term savings goals.
- 4. Big purchases. This includes things such as buying a new car, house, or another purchase that involves saving money over a longer period of time. CHANGE SLIDE

Your wants and savings goals will depend on:

- 1. Your interests. Your money in the "fun stuff" category should go towards the activities you love or the purchases that bring you joy.
- 2. Your values. Your spending and goals should also reflect your long-term dreams, your favorite causes, and how you generally want to show up in the world. CHANGE SLIDE

Now, it's your turn again. You'll need to read through the "Budget Wants" and "Savings Goals" portions of your DG Budget Profile. For each budget category, use the information from the description to fill in the template. Not everyone will have the same categories for this part of the workshop! There may be some categories that don't apply to your person. If that's the case, put in a zero.

Give participants 5 minutes to fill in the "Budget Wants" and "Savings Goals" sections of the DG Budget Profile. CHANGE SLIDE

5/30 | Balancing the Budget

We've got most of the numbers in place, but now it's time to see whether the budget is actually balanced. CHANGE SLIDE

When a budget is balanced, that means every dollar has a job. Every dollar you make should either be put into the Needs, Wants, or Savings Goals buckets. This means that when your budget is balanced, your take-home pay should be equal to your combined Budget Needs, Budget Wants, and Savings Goals. CHANGE SLIDE

There's an easy calculation to see if your budget is balanced. Simply figure out your take-home pay, then subtract out your needs, wants, and savings goals. If you get a negative number, you are overspending! You'll need to make some budget cuts. If you get a positive number, there is money leftover in the budget! You'll need to go back and give those dollars a job. Finally, if you do this math and get zero as the answer, your budget is perfectly balanced, and every dollar has a job. CHANGE SLIDE

Now it's your turn. Look for the "Summary" box on your DG Budget Profile. Rewrite the total take-home pay from the top of the worksheet. Then, use a calculator to add up each big bucket of Budget Needs, Budget Wants, and Savings Goals. Write the three totals in the appropriate boxes. Then, use your calculator to subtract out your needs, wants, and goals from the take-home pay, and write the answer in the box provided. Beware that your answer may be a negative number!

Give participants 3 minutes to see whether the budget balances. CHANGE SLIDE

10/40 Making Changes to Your Budget

In this last exercise, we're going to recommend changes to a budget, in order to balance it. Raise your hand if your DG Profile had a positive number, so that you have extra dollars to give a job. Check for engagement.

Raise your hand if your DG Profile had a negative number, so that you have to make some budget cuts. Check for engagement.

Great, we will learn how to do that now. CHANGE SLIDE

As a reminder, budgeting is an ongoing process. Sometimes you have to make changes to keep your budget balanced. This can be a very personal process, as everyone has different goals and values. CHANGE SLIDE

If you got a negative number in the exercise, here are a few ways to reduce spending:

- 1. Cut back on budget needs by getting a roommate, switching to a cheaper transportation method, cutting back your grocery bill, or reducing extra payments on debt.
- 2. Cut back on budget wants, focusing on the areas that you care the least about, and saving your favorite categories for last.
- 3. Cut back on savings goals as a last resort.
- 4. You might also consider ways to balance your budget by making more money. CHANGE SLIDE

If you got a positive number in the exercise, here are a few ways to give extra dollars a job:

- 1. Increase your budget needs, for example by living a more elaborate base lifestyle. You might live alone or shop organic, for example.
- 2. Increase your budget wants. You can increase your spending on the "fun things" you don't get enough of.
- 3. Increase the amount of money that goes to your short- and long-term saving goals more aggressively, so you can get there faster. CHANGE SLIDE

Either way, any budget changes you make should be in line with your interests, goals, and values. CHANGE SLIDE

Now you try. Read back through the first page of your DG Budget Profile. If your DG Budget Profile has extra money in her budget, decide where it should go. If there isn't enough money in the budget, decide what she should cut back on. Write your answers in the space provided.

Give participants 5 minutes to fill in the "Recommended Changes" section of the DG Profiles worksheet. CHANGE SLIDE

5/45 We've only got a few minutes left, but so let's wrap up. CHANGE SLIDE

Go through each of the following discussion questions and get one or two volunteers for each question:

- Did you think this exercise was easy or hard? Why?
- Did you find yourself agreeing with your DG Budget Profile's budget choices?
- Was there anything you would do differently if you were in her situation?

You will likely get answers that suggest that there was some debate about how to handle different situations. It may have also felt "easier" when there was extra money in the budget. CHANGE SLIDE

Here are some key takeways from this exercise:

- 1. When it comes to budgeting, there's no one right answer.
- 2. Everyone's budget will look different.
- 3. Your spending should be in line with your values.
- 4. Your savings should be in line with your goals. CHANGE SLIDE

Let participants know that the DG Financial Learning Library is coming soon.

This program is funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation.

Personal Finances in a Nutshell

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to list their financial goals.
- Participants will be able to identify and examine current spending behaviors.
- Participants will be able to identify and discuss the difference between wants vs. needs.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- Projector or computer to play video
- Internet connection
- Blank paper and pen (for each participant)
- Flipchart and markers
- "Don't Buy Stuff You Can't Afford" video https://vimeo.com/41152287

Before the Program You Need to:

- Write word "budget" on one piece of flipchart paper.
- Draw the diagram in 5b on one piece of flipchart paper.

10/10	Introduction
	Distribute a piece of paper to each participant. Ask group members to make a list of all of the "sayings" about money they have heard in 1 minute. (i.e., – money doesn't grow on trees).
	Share that we've all heard a lot about money throughout our lives. We've heard old sayings that perhaps we didn't always understand, but today we are going to explore those ideas and talk about personal finances.
5/15	The "B" Word
	Write the word "budget" on the flipchart and ask the members to share words or phrases that come to mind when they think about that word. Write the responses on the flipchart. (Answers will vary but may include: spending, saving, money, spending plan or credit.)
	Explain that budget may be used as a noun or a verb. When it is used as a noun it means a plan for managing income and expenses. When it is used as a verb it means to plan or to manage income and expenses. The primary word regardless is PLAN.

15/30 | Wants versus Needs & My Current Spending

Ask group members to make a list of the last 15 items they spent money on. After members have finished making their list give them the following instructions:

- Put a "X" next to the items that would be easy to give up on this list.
- Put a "□" next to the items that would be difficult to give up on this list.
- Circle the one item that is most important to you on this list.
- Draw a line through the one item that is least important to you on this list.

Explain the difference between wants versus needs in a personal budget. Needs are those items that are a necessity for living such as food, shelter, warmth, safety and security. Wants are just the things that we would like to have but aren't necessities for our life such as a new purse, going out to eat at a new restaurant or throw pillows for your couch.

5/35 Don't Buy Stuff You Cannot Afford

Video Show Saturday Night Live (SNL) video "Don't Buy Stuff You Can't Afford" - https://vimeo.com/41152287

10/45 | Setting Financial Goals

Explain that the key to being able to afford our needs and purchase some of our wants responsibly is to make financial goals. This allows us to PLAN for items beforehand. To set a financial goal you simply need to identify the goal, determine how much money it will cost in total and identify when you'd like to achieve the goal (month and year). Then you simply divide the number of months until the goal needs to be achieved by the total cost of the goal.

Draw the diagram below on the flipchart.

Financial Goal	Achievement Date	Total Cost	Monthly/Weekly Savings Needed
Fund Spring Break Trip	March 2018	$600 (hotel, travel, food, etc.)	$85 per month
Down- payment for a	May 2020	$4,000	$121 per month

5/5	Introduction
	It can be easy to imagine that the Delta Gamma we know and love today has always existed in its current form. Since 1873, Delta Gamma has grown and changed with the world around it to become the organization that it is today. Our Founders could have never imagined that the small club they created at the Lewis School would become an International organization with more than a quarter of a million initiated members. Understanding the history of the Fraternity is an important aspect of membership in Delta Gamma. This Dialogue is designed to help you learn more about the growth and expansion of Delta Gamma, explore The Shield, and gain an understanding of how you contribute to the historical narrative of Delta Gamma.

20/25 Activity 1: Delta Gamma Timeline Activity Instructions: 1. Divide your small group in to four smaller groups. Provide each team with a piece of flip chart paper and a writing utensil. 2. Distribute the slips of paper with Delta Gamma Events evenly between each team. 3. Instruct each group to utilize The Shield and additional resources as necessary to create a chronological Delta Gamma history timeline with the facts they were given. The timeline should include the title of the event, date the event occurred, and important figures involved for each event. 4. Allow 10 minutes for timelines to be completed and 10 minutes for each team to present to the group. 5. Review the correct order which is as follows: 1. Pi Beta Phi is founded at Monmouth College and is considered the first women's college fraternity organized with the intent to become national. (1867) 2. Delta Gamma is founded at the Lewis School during the holidav. (1873) 3. The Badge, originally in the shape of an "H", was replaced by an anchor. (1877) 4. George Banta becomes the only male initiate and establishes a Delta Gamma chapter for the first time, of which his fiancé, Lily was a member. (1879) 5. Delta Gamma's first convention. (1881) 6. Bronze, Pink, and Blue become Delta Gamma's official colors. (1883)7. The first issue of the ANCHORA was circulated. (1884) 8. The cream rose is chosen as Delta Gamma's flower. (1885) 9. Use the remaining time for members to share what they have learned with the group.

10/45 Wrap Up & Reflection Questions

Ask the following questions to the group and encourage discussion.

- How does our history shape the organization that we are today?
- How can we, as a chapter, continue to build upon Delta Gamma's history?

Chapter-Developed Program

Chapters may select to develop their own program for any of the four values. In order to conduct a chapter-developed program, utilize the following template and submit it 6 weeks prior to the scheduled program to your RCS/CAC/NCC and to the assistant executive director & director of education & development (DGDialogues@deltagamma.org) for approval.

Topic Focus:

Describe need for this program:

Learning Objectives: [Complete the following prompt ... As a result of this program, participants will be able to ...]

Time Allotted:

Facilitator Instructions: [Give detailed instructions to the small group facilitators on how to facilitate the program. Utilize the other programs in this guide for guidance on how to write the instructions.]

Campus Program

Learning Objective:

- Participants will be able to discuss the main points presented by campus program.
- Participants will be able to articulate how the main points apply to their individual lives.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

• Facilitation Questions for Small Groups

Before the Program You Need to:

- Attended the designated campus program. It is best to plan this facilitated discussion as close to the program as possible.
- Have a copy of the learning outcomes or purpose of the campus program for each small group.
- Make notes during the program of follow-up questions that could be asked during small group discussion. A common list of follow-up questions should be developed by the vp: member education and shared with each small group to be used during Step 2.

15/15	Key Takeaway
	Ask each small group member to share their key takeaway or main point from the event and how they would implement that key point in their life. Example: speaker focuses on hazing – what role do you play in ensuring hazing is not a part of chapter activities. Limit each member to one main point due to time constraints.
15/30	What Role Do You Play
	Pose any specific question the speaker(s) asked you to reflect on during the program or after the program.
	 If there were no questions posed, ask the following questions:
	How can you be proactive in addressing this issue?
	What role does your chapter or the fraternity/sorority community
	play in addressing this issue?
15/45	Step 2 - Connection to Article II

Fac Note

The "What Role Do You Play" section may take the full 30 minutes depending on the list of questions generated. If that is the case this step may be eliminated.

Ask each small group member to discuss what the speaker's mission was and how it connects to Article II: The objects of this Fraternity shall be to foster high ideals of friendship among women, to promote their educational and cultural interests, to create in them a true sense of social responsibility and to develop in them the best qualities of character.

Thank the small group members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

- Chapter-Developed Program
- Campus Program

Behind Happy Faces: Understanding Mental Health

The Behind Happy Faces program was developed by Ross Szabo, author and the CEO of Human Power Project, a company that designs mental health curriculum and author of Behind Happy Faces. Szabo designed two programs for Delta Gamma. The second program is a Friendship Program.

The learning objectives of Understanding Mental Health are as follows:

- State a correct definition of mental health.
- Identify personal barriers to seeking help, explore the source of those and work on how to address them.
- State a definition of coping.
- Differentiate between effective and ineffective coping.

This program is funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation.

Before the program, email the following to the chapter: On [insert date] at [insert time], the chapter will be participating in the DG Dialogue [insert name of Behind Happy Faces program]. The content and discussion in this training will necessarily engage with topics of mental health. It may be both emotionally and intellectually challenging to engage with. We believe this is an incredibly relevant and important conversation for collegians to have and will work to create a space where we can all engage bravely, empathetically and thoughtfully with this difficult content.

To access this program, click here.

	II. To start, we are going to watch a video. Before we begin, I want to let everyone know this video talks about the death of a parent

Fac Note

If new members are present, be sure that the Oath of Friendship and Oath of Responsibility are not discussed in detail.

- How can you continue to keep those promises?
- How can the chapter keep these promises?

Thank the small group members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

The Science of Character

Learning Objectives:

• Participants will be able to discuss the process of character development.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

- Notecards (two per participant)
- Periodic Table of Character Strengths (one per participant)
- Projector or laptop to play video
- Science of Character video http://www.letitripple.org/films/science-of-character/

15/15	Science of Character video
	Today we are going to talk about character. We are going to start by watching "The Science of Character" by Let it Ripple. Let it Ripple is a films studio whose mission is to engage people in conversation and action around complicated subjects that are shaping our lives.
	Start the video from the beginning.
	http://www.letitripple.org/films/science-of-character/
	Before we get started with our discussion, I want you to take your two note cards and finish the sentence the video ended with, "I want to be" Write the same thing on both cards. Do not write your name on either card. Allow time for the participants to complete the note cards.
	Now that you have finished writing your answer on both cards, give one card to me and keep the other.
	Pass these cards out randomly.
	Thank you for taking time to fill out the notecards. You now have your answer of what you want to be and what one of your sisters wants to be. We hope it serves as a reminder to always work hard at who you want to be. Set aside your notecards for now. We will come back to them at the end.

10/25 | Science of Character Processing

Ask the following questions:

- Think back to the video, what stood out to you in the Science of Character video?
- What part made you think the most?
- Is there anything you had never thought of before?
- Is there anything you disagreed with?

15/40 Periodic Table of Character Strengths

Distribute the Periodic Table of Character Strengths.

Ask participants to circle their top 5 character strengths. Ask 2-3 people to share with the group.

Ask the following questions:

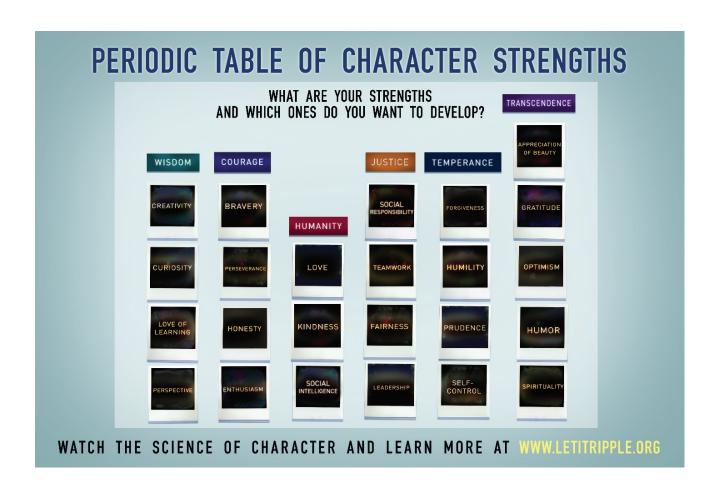

- Where do most of your character strengths lie?
- Are they mostly in one column?
- What do you make of that?
- What character strengths do you think are most valued at our college/university?
- Are they different from your top 5 character strengths?

- Are they different from the character strengths most valued in the community and home you grew up in?
- Who do you most admire in the world?
- What are the character strengths you admire about them?

5/45 Closing

To finish I want to come back to the answer you wrote down at the very beginning, "I want to be..." Consider what character strengths will help achieve what you want to be? I want to you write them on the back of your notecard as a reminder of what you expect of yourself.

Thanks for participating in a great discussion today and share the following quote: "Watch your thoughts, for they become words. Watch your habits, for they become your character. And watch your character, for it becomes your destiny."

Human Dignity Workshop*

Program Description:

The Human Dignity Workshop is a two-hour interactive learning experience that includes interactive activities, large group discussions led by a facilitator, small group activities organized by the lead facilitator, private reflection, and one-on-one conversations among participants. The Workshop will be a conversation about sisterhood, how we treat ourselves and others, and reminder of what it means to "Do Good".

Previously the Human Dignity workshop was completed during the second week of every new member period for the entire chapter. It was a 45-60 minute workshop that was led by a member of the chapter. The updated workshop curriculum will be delivered by a trained facilitator who has a previous knowledge base and experience working with hazing prevention, specifically with fraternities and sororities. It will include a mixture of activities, small group conversation, and personal reflection. The conclusion of the workshop will consist of members making commitments to themselves and the chapter regarding treating others with dignity.

How can my chapter get the program?

Beginning in Fall 2018 Delta Gamma has committed to bringing the Human Dignity Workshop to each collegiate chapter once every three years. Each term, certain chapters will be selected for this program based on a variety of different factors.

When a chapter is selected, the president will receive an email asking her to submit date preferences. Once your date is confirmed via email, you will be responsible for working with your assigned facilitator to select a suitable time for the program. You will need to schedule 2.5 hours to complete the Human Dignity Workshop (Example: Saturday 2-4:30 p.m.). Please notify the chapter of the length of the program so they may be prepared. When submitting date preferences, please consult your e-Ops+ calendar as well as your university calendar to ensure that you are not submitting a date that is over a university break or during another significant chapter or campus event.

Cost of the program:

The Human Dignity Workshop is fully funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation, this includes all lodging and travel for the facilitator. If the chapter would like to take the facilitator to lunch/dinner and time permits, they may do so.

Additional Information:

Should you have to cancel the Human Dignity Workshop at any time, your chapter will be responsible for all expenses incurred up to the date of cancellation. These expenses are in addition to a cancellation fee that is outlined in the Chapter Terms and Conditions document.

Should you have any questions regarding scheduling and preparation please feel free to reach out to veronica@deltagamma.org or 614-481-8169. We are so excited to be partnering with your chapter to help us "Do Good" for our communities, campuses and members.

This program is funded by the Delta Gamma Foundation.

*Completed as a chapter, not in small groups.

Lectureship in Values and Ethics Processing

Note: This program is only for chapters who have a Foundation-funded Lectureship in Values & Ethics established on their campus.

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will be able to discuss the main points presented by the lectureship speaker.
- Participants will be able to articulate how the points apply to their individual lives

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

• Facilitation Questions for Small Groups

Before the Program You Need to:

- Host the Lectureship in Values and Ethics. It is best to plan this program as close to Lectureship as possible.
- Chapters may choose to provide a brief overview on the outcomes of Lectureship including number of attendees, new stories generated, anecdotal information collected, feedback from the speaker or anyone else associated with the event. This is also an opportunity to celebrate the director of Lectureship and/or vp: Foundation or any others who helped to organize the event.
- Copy of the learning outcomes or purpose of the Lectureship speaker for each small group.

15/15	Key Points
	Ask each small group member to share their key takeaway or main point from the event and how they would implement that key point in their life. Limit each member to one main point due to time constraints.
	 Examples from past lectureships: Topic: Mia Hamm discussed being a leader in her sport and in her philanthropic efforts.

- Question for small group: How do you strive to be a leader in something you care about?
- Topic: Elizabeth Smart discussed life after a tragic event and advocated for change regarding child abduction and recovery programs.
 - Question for small group: What do you want to advocate for?

10/25 | Connection to Article II

Ask each small group member to discuss what the speaker's mission was and how it connects to Article II: The objects of this Fraternity shall be to foster high ideals of friendship among women, to promote their educational and cultural interests, to create in them a true sense of social responsibility and to develop in them the best qualities of character.

10/35 | Foundation Support

Remind small group members that the Lectureship is the result of fundraising from the chapter as well as a matching gift from the Delta Gamma Foundation. Ask the group the following questions:

- Why is it important to have financial support for this Lectureship?
- Think about how you align your financial gifts with your values and ethics what would you or do you give to?

10/45 | Values & Ethics

Ask the following question:

• Pretend it's 20 years from now and you have been asked to serve as a Lectureship speaker. What values and ethics would you talk about?

Thank the small group members for sharing and remind them to continue to think and act on the ideas discussed today.

Facilitator Instructions: [Give detailed instructions to the small group facilitators on how to facilitate the program. Utilize the other programs in this guide for guidance on how to write the instructions.]

Campus Program

Learning Objective:

- Participants will be able to discuss the main points presented by campus program.
- Participants will be able to articulate how the main points apply to their individual lives.

Time Allotted: 45 minutes

Materials Required:

• Facilitation Questions for Small Groups

Before the Program You Need to:

- Attended the designated campus program. It is best to plan this facilitated discussion as close to the program as possible.
- Have a copy of the learning outcomes or purpose of the campus program for each small group.
- Make notes during the program of follow-up questions that could be asked during small group discussion. A common list of follow-up questions should be developed by the vp: member education and shared with each small group to be used during Step 2.

15/15	Key Takeaway
	Ask each small group member to share their key takeaway, or main point, from the event and how they would implement that key point in their life. Example: speaker focuses on hazing – what role do you play in ensuring hazing is not a part of chapter activities. Limit each member to one main point due to time constraints.
15/30	What Role Do You Play
	Pose any specific question the speaker(s) asked you to reflect on during the program or after the program.
	If there were no questions posed, ask the following questions:
	How can you be proactive in addressing this issue?
	What role does your chapter or the fraternity/sorority community
	play in addressing this issue?

15/45	Step 2 - Connection to Article II
Fac Note	The "What Role Do You Play" section may take the full 30 minutes depending on the list of questions generated. If that is the case this step may be eliminated.
	Ask each small group member to discuss what the speaker's mission was and how it connects to Article II: The objects of this Fraternity shall be to foster high ideals of friendship among women, to promote their educational and cultural interests, to create in them a true sense of social responsibility and to develop in them the best qualities of character.
